Township residents to have say

FRANKFORT — There is to be a meeting in the Frankfort grade school gym, Oregon and Hickory streets, at 8 p.m. this Friday, April 18, to discuss the real estate tax situation which has aroused considerable resentment among Will County property owners.

The meeting Friday is sponsored by the Frankfort Taxpayers Association, of which Albert H. Krusemark Sr. is temporary chairman. Everyone in Frankfort Township is invited to attend.

Supervisor Glenn Coburn and other town officers are to be there. Also scheduled to attend, Krusemark said, will be the legislative representative, State Representative Robert Blair, speaker of the house and State Senator Meade Baltz are slated to be on hand. State Representatives George O'Brien and John Houlihan are not seeking re-election to the general assembly this year and both are campaigning for Congress so they are not expected to attend.

Krusemark said there would be a full explanation given of the proceedings used in the assessment of property, the levies, the establishment of tax rates and the collection. Of chief interest right now, it was pointed out, are the assessments. Every four years real estate is re-assessed. Assessment of property is done by the township assessor but is subject to review. Will County now has a supervisor of assessments who is the overseer of all the assessors and guides them in their work.

Any complaints a property owner has concerning the amount of the assessment placed on his lots, lands or improvements must be filed with the county board of review within 10 days after the list of assessed valuations has been published.

Krusemark said, however, that the board of review has extended the time for filing for Frankfort Township so there will still be time for people to file their complaints. There will be forms available at the meeting Friday.

Someone started a story that if a person signed a complaint with the board of review it might cause his taxes to rise or bring about some other penalty. This is false, authorities stated, and why such a rumor should be started or why any credence should be given it is not understandable, they said.

The state department of revenue has decreed that assessed valuations should equal about 55 per cent of the fair market value of a property. So if the assessed valuation in a county is not up to the state requirements, the department of revenue can assign a factor or multiplier which is supposed to bring the assessed valuation up to the 55 per cent level. There has been criticism that there have been times when the application of such factors have put the value of property beyond all bounds of reason.

The assessed valuations placed this year have drawn the ire of property owners in all sections. The lists for Joliet and Lockport townships have not yet been published but it is said that they are running high and there will be many, more more complaints filed with the board of review.

There has been talk of a blanket roll back of valuations but nothing officials has been decided on the subject. County officials point out there are so many complaints that if the board of review follows the law and inspects each parcel of real estate on which a complaint has been made concerning the valuation, it would take years for it to catch up with its work.

When taxes will be paid is problematical, it was said, because no one knows when the bills will be sent out. As a matter of fact not one in authority has any idea when the bills can be made out. The bills can't be made out until the tax rates have been established and the rates cannot be figured until all the assessment books have been finished by the board of review.

Krusemark urges all persons interested in the tax situation in Frankfort Township — Frankfort, Mokena, Lincoln Estates, Prestwick, Arbury Hills and all other points within its boundaries — attend the meeting Friday night in the Frankfort grade school.

Water forms available

NEW LENOX — New Lenox residents living in the area where the new water lines are being installed who have not received a form to use in making application for water service, are asked by Village Clerk Marjorie Wajchert to contact her office.

The telephone number is 485-6452 but individuals also may call in person at the hall on Church Street and obtain an application blank. It is important, it was pointed ed out, that applications for service be made so leads from the mains may be brought to the property lines.

Property owners who do not make arrangements now to connect with the system will have an extra charge to pay if they do it later, it was explained.

The village wants to know now who plans to get water service.

Stop signs are surprise

NEW LENOX — The intersection of Francis and Cedar Roads — a busy crossing made even busier recently with the opening of a shopping center there — no longer operates on a catch-as-catch-can basis.

The state department of highways decided to regulate traffic there and last Wednesday forenoon, without any advance notice, a crew installed four-way stop signs at the intersection.

This means that Cedar Road is no longer a through street when it crosses Francis Road. There have been times of the day when traffic has bunched up on Francis Road because of the movement on Cedar. Now all cars must stop and proceed in the usual movement that prevails at four-ways.

Question printing tax list

FRANKFORT TOWNSHIP — Property owners in this township were questioning the HERALD this week, "Why weren't our tax lists (assessed valuations) published in the HERALD this year?"

Earlier this year when it was decided what publications in Will County would carry the quadrennial assessed valuations of real estate property the HERALD had not yet reached its first birthday.

Oren Pomeroy, Jr., Will County supervisor of assessments, contacted the HERALD publishers and informed the newspaper that he would have to publish the assessment lists in other publications as a newspaper must be published for more than one year to be considered a "legal" publication.

It was not realized at that time the assessment lists would be so late in being prepared for publication.

The HERALD, which is now one year and nine weeks old, was formerly called the Southwest Graphic. A year ago, the publishers discontinued publication of the Southwest Graphic and began publication of the HERALD of Frankfort, Mokena and New Lenox, the Lockport HERALD, the Lemont HERALD and the Bolingbrook/Romeoville HERALD.

These four publications were initiated in order that residents of these communities would have more local hometown newspapers. They joined their sister publications, Tinley Park Times HERALD, Oak Forest Times HERALD and Orland Park HERALD.

Earlier this year the Park Forest REPORTER became the eighth weekly newspaper to join the Paddock Crescent Newspapers, Inc., family.

Villagers seek Leavitt contribution

NEW LENOX — The New Lenox Village Board annexed the 91 acres of Leavitt and Son, south and west of the Lincoln-Way Shopping Center and signed a pre-annexation agreement Dec. 15, setting up the terms and conditions covering what is called a planned unit development.

The New Lenox grade school district, No. 122 received an agreed upon sum of cash to take up the lag in the payment of taxes on the dwelling units to be erected. There is usually an 18-month interval between the time a home is occupied and the first taxes paid on it come to the various taxing bodies.

There was no provision made to aid the Lincoln-Way High School and at the meeting of the village board last Wednesday night a number of residents appeared to find out why the high school had been passed by. This question had been raised two nights previously at a plan commission hearing on the development.

At that time Robert Brandwien, a representative of the developer — whom he had never met or talked with, Supt. Joe Kruczich of Lincoln-Way High said later — said a subsidy was offered to the high school but was refused.

Lewis Loebe, chairman of the plan commission, also was quoted to the effect that it was his understanding that Supt. Kruczich had said the high school did not need the money at this time.

People attending the village board meeting pointed out that it was only some weeks ago that Assistant Supt. Jonas Lashmet, of Lincoln-Way, and Supt. Arnold Tyler, of the grade school system, had appeared before the board to urge adoption of an ordinance which would set up a formula to govern grants by developers or builders, either in land or in cash, to the school districts in which their improvements lie.

Some of the board appeared to think that the New Lenox grade school district was more aggressive than the high school and that it was not the province of the village to take over the job that should have been done by the schools.

The spectators did not agree and they wanted something done for the high school. Village Attorney Wayne Johnson said there was nothing the village could do legally to force Leavitt & Sons to make a contribution to Lincoln-Way High School.

Robert Daney, 118 Haven Ave., one of the spokesmen for the group protesting leaving the high school out of the picture, urged the village board to adopt a resolution to renegotiate the contract with Leavitt and Sons, also known as the Arlington Grove Corp. Daney said that Naperville had to negotiate with this firm for four years before finally reaching an agreement providing aid for schools.

The plan commission chairman reported to the village board that progress was being made with Leavitt and Sons but there are still to be more conversations.

While the discussion of Lincoln-Way High School's lack of aid was going on, Bill Bolker, a New Lenox contractor, came in to object to various proposals in the pre-annexation agreement presented recently by Devcon Corporation. Before getting on that subject Bolker, who had been in conversation with Supt. Kruczich, delivered two letters from the school official to Mayor Hartung.

One was dated April 19 and directed to the mayor. The other bore a Nov. 4, 1971 date and was a copy of a letter sent to Carl Schonwise, a member of the plan commission.

The letters refer to the Leavitt and Sons development plans.

The letter to Schonwise reads as follows: "Following our conversation on Monday, Nov. 15, 1971, at the zoning meeting in New Lenox, I calculated some figures that I think you would be interested in. As I stated Monday night, the tax base is sufficient for the operational cost based on per-capita cost in our district. It does not provide for the necessary building to immediately house the students. Yet, as you recognize, the present facilities have an indebtedness extending to 1986 and these people moving into the house will be paying toward that indebtedness. The present tax levy rate for bond and interest which pays for this facility is $.415 per $100 assessed valuation.

"The developer stated that the single family price range would be between $25,000 and $30,000. Assuming an average home would cost $27,000, based on a 55% assessed valuation, this produces a value of $14,850. Our total tax rate for the past year was $2.221 per $100 assessed valuation which would bring $329.81 to the school district. A basic formula that we use throughout the district based on research is that for every 3.5 units, one high school student is produced.

"Consequently, if we multiply the $329.81 by 3.5, we would receive $1,154.33 in tax monies. Our per capita cost last year was $1,101.68. Naturally, as the years have progressed, the per capita cost has increased. However, this past year there was a decline of $13 in per capita cost.

"I hope this information is helpful to you. The high school is definitely interested in a total district approach to all subdivisions in regard to some relief to buildings or land needs."

The letter to Mayor Hartung with the April 19 date, follows:

"I am requesting that the city council take action on the ordinance pertaining to developers donating land or monies in lieu of land as soon as possible. If this cannot be accomplished immediately, I am requesting that before the city council approves annexing agreements, they will request the developers to meet with the elementary and high school superintendents to make some type of voluntary cash donation. This money to go for the construction of school buildings that will be necessary to house the students that these subdivisions will produce.

"As you will recall, I called a meeting on Nov. 29, 1971, of the mayors, planning commissions, school board presidents and school superintendents of the Lincoln-Way area. Your help was requested in regard to passing an ordinance that would alleviate some of the financial hardship brought about by developers coming into our district. All of the planning commissions and three of the four city councils have been approached in regard to this ordinance. I am now requesting that action be taken by the city council to expedite the passing of this ordinance."

Supt. Kruczich then alluded to statements carried in press reports last week containing a "statement by Mr. Loebe pertaining to the high school not requesting money from the Leavitt and Sons Developers. At that particular public hearing, a commitment of money was made by that corporation to the New Lenox Grade School District. The people representing that corporation did not contact me as I had previously requested at a public meeting. When the planning commission was discussing this particular development, I attended the meeting. Immediately following that meeting I sent a letter (dated Nov. 17, 1971) to Carl Schonwise, who is on that planning commission, stating that the tax base for these homes would, once on the tax rolls, produce sufficient operational cost money but would not produce the money necessary for the immediate building needs. There was no vote pertaining to this subdivision at the meeting I attended and I have since attended other meetings pertaining to that subdivision and have requested your cooperation through the ordinance making a cash contribution to the schools.

"I understand that there is another subdivision within the confines of your jurisdiction that has made a commitment to the elementary school and not to the high school. I hereby want to formally object to this subdivision and ask that you not annex this development until they have agreed to a cash contribution to Lincoln-Way Community High School."

Later on in the week Supt. Kruczich said that Sanger Westphall, president of Devcon Corporation, the development to which he referred in his letter to the mayor, had come to see him with the view of arranging for a contribution to the high school.

Village Attorney Johnson reported that the attorneys for the other villages and himself were working out the terms of the ordinance requested by the schools so that it would be uniform in all sections of the Lincoln-Way district and he expected to have a copy for the board's consideration at its next meeting.

Mayor Hartung said that if there has been a misunderstanding or if the village board had erred it was without intention and was regretted.

"There are so many things to be done and our time so limited," he said, "that doubtless we may err at times but we endeavor to do what we believe is best for everyone, and to do the best we can."

Planning session set for Gay 90's Festival

FRANKFORT — The initial planning meeting for the annual Gay 90's Festival, which is sponsored by the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce, is to be held at 7:30 p.m. May 1 at Brummer Division, of Borg-Warner at 300 S. Maple St. The announcement was made at the Chamber meeting last Wednesday by Harold H. Slocum, festival chairman. All civic, church and food service groups are asked to have representatives at the planning session.

To be properly represented, Slocum said, each group should have a person present who will act on one of the general committees. It would be helpful, Slocum said, if such persons were named immediately.

Chairmen have been selected by the executive committee and are ready to meet. Albert Behnke, of Behnke Studios, has been named to head the entertainment committee, and Robert Dehn, manager of Rittenhouse & Embree Lumber is chairman of advertising and publicity. Chairmen are yet to be named for space allocation, finance, arrangements and worship service. The festival is to be held Sept. 2, 3-4.

It has been recommended, Slocum said, that all workers in booths, participants in the parade and as many residents as possible wear costumes harking back to the last decade of the 19th century.

Dist. 228 studies summer bus plan

OAK FOREST/TINLEY PARK — High School District 228 is studying the feasibility of providing busses for students attending summer school sessions in the district's four high schools this summer.

The high schools in the district are: Tinley Park, Oak Forest, Hillcrest and Bremen. The district rents busses during the regular school year at $40 per day per bus.

The bus company also provides drivers.

The district is making a study on the feasibility of summer school busing, and is expected to have a report sometime in May, as to what factors, including cost must be taken into consideration.

Many students apparently drive themselves to school during the summer, and others are driven by parents, or friends.

If the district's budget does not allow for a full summer schedule, one district official said a busing program if found feasible might even be used on a limited basis with transportation provided for areas where a large concentration of students would be attending summer sessions.

Last year total summer school registration was 1,200 for the four high schools.

Registration for this year's summer school will be held next month.

One of the complications that might be involved in any district program would be the districts' summer driver education classes. The summer driving classes run from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, and it might not prove economically feasible for the busses to run throughout the day, to provide transportation for the driving classes.

'Horizon' drama at Providence

NEW LENOX — "While the whole world dreams of a new existence of longevity, tranquility, and peace, those with the opportunity for such a life stumble over the social and personal complications it brings."

With that simple statement, drama instructor Lois Loebe describes the plot for the Providence High School production of "The Lost Horizon" by James Hilton.

Directed by Mrs. Loebe, with the assistance of student director Diane Skvorec of New Lenox, the play finds four Americans suddenly faced with the possibility of a near eternal and satisfying existence in the Tibetan lamasary of Shangri-La only to forsake the opportunity and return to a world torn by strife.

Tom Conway, portrayed by senior Gerard Pacini of Joliet, is leader of the American group which has been high-jacked to Shangri-La. As the plot unfolds, it becomes obvious that the lamasary residents have plans for Conway; they seek his leadership for their community as their founder, an aged monk, slips toward his final hours.

Mixed with the suspense of the high-jack is a many faceted love story. Conway soon finds irresistible the affections of lamasary resident, Helen, portrayed by senior Betty Grobarcik of Joliet. John Mallinson, portrayed by senior Gene Meier of Joliet, is unable to ignore the devotion offered him by servant girl, Lo Tsen, played by junior Mickey Carolano of Orland Park; and even Barnard, an American businessman escaping the police on a charge of embezzlement and played by senior Mark Ferrer of Lemont, forsakes his concern for financial gain when presented with the love of the servant Tashi, portrayed by junior Kathy Wall of Palos Heights. Only Miss Brinklow, a straight-laced missionary played by Roann Nichols of New Lenox, does not find a human love to fulfill her existence; yet she too finds satisfaction in the possibility of spreading her Christian crusade for "the one true religion" to "the pagans" of Shangri-La.

Others involved in the production, which is being staged at the Providence "Little Theatre" April 21 and 23, and April 28, 29, and 30, include:

Senior Deane Chermack of Joliet, as Myra; junior Sue Ann Smrigna of Joliet, as Elizabeth; junior Bob Adams of Joliet, as Bob; senior Pat Polcyn of Joliet, as Nathan; junior Tom Lee of Manhattan, as Chang; freshman Al Kapalsinski of Tinley Park, as the High Lama; freshman Karen Kroviak of Joliet, as Ai Ling; and sophomore Kevin Luczycki of Joliet, as the Tibetan.

In 1969, Mr. Nader established The Center for Study of Responsive Law, and set a group of young lawyers to work researching public-interest issues ranging from air and water pollution, soil and food contamination, to corporate monopolies.

ORLAND PARK — Carl Sandburg's golfers sport an unblemished 3-0 record and have yet to be seriously challenged by any opponent this year. The Eagles have coasted by Reavis, Lockport Central, and Oak Lawn without much trouble.

At Palos Country Club Sandburg downed Reavis by a big score which saw John MacIntosh take medalist honors with a 38, Ray Kubis was next with a 40, Greg Green and Tom Frangella both shot 43's to tie for third.

Later in the week the Eagles traveled to Big Run Country Club to down Lockport. MacIntosh was top man again, this time with a 42 score on a wet course.

Green and Frangella tied again this week with 43. Kubis was fourth with a 44. In the Eagles second conference meet, Sandburg downed Oak Lawn convincingly. Playing without top linksmen Ray Kubis, Tom Frangella, and Dave Demetral the Eagles got by the Spartans by eight strokes.

Greg Green was the top Eagle this time with a 41. Jack Schubert also shot a 41 to help the Eagles to their third straight win.

Sandburg will get a stern test of their ability this weekend when they meet Hillcrest at Silver Lake Country Club. On Saturday they will travel to Champagne - Urbana to compete in the Champagne Invitational. Besides Sandburg, Southwest suburban champs Homewood-Flossmoor and state champions Bellville will be among the 30 teams competing.

COOK COUNTY — The county forest preserve has announced plans for an 18-hole golf course southeast of Tinley Park. The site is bounded on the north by 175th street and on the south by 183rd. On the east by I-80 and the west by Central Avenue.

The course will cost an estimated $1,300,000 and be completed in about 18 months. The site is not timbered, and trees will be planted on portions of the course.

Plans include automatic fairway watering, large greens, sand traps, and a practice driving range.

NEW LENOX — Providence got some strong track performances despite losing and finishing second in action last week. The Celts lost 71-56 to Joliet Central, and then came in second in a triangular meet with Lincoln-Way, and Lockport which was won by Lincoln-Way.

Mickey Bontemps was double winner against Joliet. Bontemps won the 100 and 220 sprints in 10.5 and 23.4.

Other wins for Providence came in the 440, mile, two mile, long jump and the 880 relay.

In the triangular Providence had wins in the 100 and 440 events.

MARLEY — You're not going to believe this but so help me Ripley, it really happened at Willow Run Golf Club here on Maple Road.

Robert D. Simon, 38, of Genoa, Ill., who admits he is not a par shooter, nor anywhere near it, made a hole in one here April 18 in a most unusual way.

April 18 was a windy day, quite windy, golfers testifies, so everyone going into the teeth of the wind was using plenty of club. When Simon came to the second tee he found himself shooting directly into the wind. No. 2 is Par 3, 140 yards with mostly water between tee and green.

Simon whaled into the ball with a five iron. The ball went out like a bullet but a bullet with a short trajectory. Half way over the water it slanted down, hitting the surface at a glancing angle. Most of you probably have skipped rocks over water and that is what happened here. The ball skipped a couple of times, the last skip landing it on the green at the water's edge, and there it rolled — smack into the cup!

Pat Skvere, one of the operators of Willow Run, said when she reported the hole in one to Dunlop and described how it was done, the man at the other end of the line said Simon should get a double trophy.

FRANKFORT — The Frankfort Community Chapel team in the Frankfort Women's Bowling League wound up the season as champions, the third time a Chapel team has won the title in the past five years.

The league bowls on the point system and the team sponsored by Gene Girardi finished with 77.5 winning points as against 54.5 losing ones.

Among the teams highlights was a 246 game rolled by Jean Schram, which was 103 pins over her average, and Toni Ritt, captain, picked up the 4-7-10 split for a needed spare.

Other members of the team are Alice Bradley, Lola Harnack and Vivienne Ellis.

NEW LENOX — George Peterson led the Providence golf team to a pair of wins last week as the Celts moved to a 2-2-1 season mark.

Peterson shot a 39 as Providence beat Aurora Central, 179-183. Peterson was the only golfer under 40 in the wind-swept meet. Rich Donczyk was second with a 45.

Earlier in the week Peterson had a 38 as Providence beat Stagg 167-199. Bob Dalpos was second with a 39. The only Celt loss game against Joliet Central, 172-175.

Peterson was top man with a 39, followed by Dalpos with a 44.

No Chicago water plan by May

OAK FOREST — The city has received new counter-proposals from Oak Lawn regarding purchase of Chicago water to date, according to Trustee Dennis O'Connor, speaking as mayor pro tem at the board meeting Monday night.

Recent stories in local newspapers raising the possibility that an agreement was near have resulted in several inquiries from Oak Forest residents.

O'Connor said that when the proposal is received it will be reviewed and presented to the board of trustees for a vote. He also said that there was no possibility of a decision by May 1 as had been quoted in the newspaper (not the TIMES HERALD). The board cannot indicate at this time when a decision will be made.

Unanimous approval was given to a motion by Trustee Robert Wheeler for the expenditure of up to $7500 for a business survey of Cicero ave and 159th st. The study will be conducted by Carl Gardner & Associates.

Also approved was a resolution stating Oak Forest's disapproval of proposed rate increases by the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. The city is requesting the Illinois Commerce Commission to deny any increases until the phone company reviews its price structure and makes an effort to reduce operating costs.

A pre-annexation agreement with Regal Homes for the construction of Crescent Green, a planned unit development was tabled for further discussion regarding dedication and maintenance of roads within the development.

Approval of an amended ordinance regulating parking of commercial and recreational vehicles was also tabled. Chief of Police Gerald Stevenson suggested that the entire ordinance be re-written to make its intent clear and its provisions enforceable. He will offer his recommendations at the next board meeting.

Reacting to the increased real estate taxes, the board voted to call a public meeting inviting county, state and township officials to be questioned by the trustees regarding the tax situation. Meanwhile Leonard Neuzil suggested that residents pay their taxes under protest. Tax protest forms will be available to citizens at the city hall. Street resurfacing programs in Oak Forest will begin in the near future. Contracts totalling more than $142,000 have been let to Gallagher Asphalt Company. Huge sections of Fieldcrest, Gingerwood and many other subdivisions will be covered in these contracts. Included in this program is the paving of 151st st. from Long to Central ave. This section of road has been a subject of controversy for some time.

There will be a public hearing held this Friday to review the proposed budget. It begins at 8 p.m. at the city hall. The board will answer questions from interested citizens.

Objects to abortion editorial

Editor:

Your editorial on abortion in the March 28 issue of The Herald was recently brought to my attention.

In differences of opinion it is important (indeed essential) that we stick to facts. While you have the right to disagree with the points made in the literature — I would hardly consider the term "sick literature" appropriate. You exerted your right to consider this "dirty politicking."

I trust you grant others the right to disagree with your conclusions.

The American principle of fair play demands that it is my duty to point out that I believe your editorial was misleading. The press has the responsibility to cherish truth, because you have the power to influence public opinion. When you oppose positions of others with factual and reasonable arguments your readers can weigh the evidence. When you resort to hurling epithets (i.e. "sick literature," "dirty politicking") you abandon ethical journalism and thus provoke righteous reaction.

As for your statement that it was a dead "Five month-old fetus" I direct you to Prow Publications, Kenosha, Wis., booklet titled, "Abortion — Sexual Suicide," which uses same picture. On the inside cover the author gives credit to Central Bur. of St. Louis for the photo and states that the aborted baby, is (was) 18 weeks old.

You state that a "picture of any dead thing" "will affect a decent person's sensibilities. As one who believes that at conception the baby is a human being, I take issue with calling the fetus a "thing." It may offend your sensibilities to look upon the aborted baby in a hospital bucket or view pictures of the inhuman cruelties perpetrated on the child in the womb — it mustn't affect the sensibilities of those who are performing such abortions — or they would be halted — at once!

Dr. Heather Morris, obstetrician and gynecologist at Women's Hospital in Toronto declared that any country accepting abortion has descended into an abyss of cruelty and can no longer be called civilized.

Therefore I will continue to fight legalized abortion laws which give man the right to snuff out life.

MRS. PAUL DERBAK
11021 S. St. Louis Chicago

Editor's Note — The leaflet this paper received, and which we still have on file that they picture is that of a child four months before birth, which would make it a five month old fetus. The leaflet also includes Richard Kelly's name and since it came out at the same time Kelly was running along with Leland Rayson, a staunch advocate of liberalized abortion laws, thus the charge of dirty politicking. As for the publication in Wisconsin, we assume that publication is available on request to anyone who wants it. The leaflets in question were mailed to homes throughout the area indiscriminately, and left under the windshields of cars, and were at no time mailed to anyone on request.

NOTICE

All letters to the editor must be signed FOR PUBLICATION with the writer's name and address. They should, preferably, be typed, double spaced. Shorter letters (preferably less than 200 words) stand a better chance of being published.

For the past 30 years we look forward to the return of the first Purple Martins. This year a scout appeared with another pair on April 1, (no fooling). From now on the rest of the colony will be returning from South America to nest.

Now then is the time to clean and put up your Martin houses to attract them. Some say aluminum houses are best but I don't agree; wooden houses with an aluminum roof open at the eaves for ventilation are better suited for the needs of the birds.

According to the records, the Purple Martin population has been decreasing for

Taxpayers split with Uncle Sam

By Glenn Logan

It is the best of times. It is the happiest of times. It is the most joyous time of the year it is tax time.

Tax time! It is no wonder the sun is shining, the birds are playing "Happy Days Are Here Again," and there is a rash of "Have a Nice Day" buttons breaking out all over the place.

April 15 was the big day as guests of Uncle Sam. Everyone, well, most everyone, has to make book with Uncle Sam. April 15, Uncle Sam is like a dealer in a gambling house — he takes a cut out of every pay pot but on April 15 he rides and takes it all.

This makes everyone feel happy when they think of those congressmen voting themselves, and the senators, and the judges and all the other millions of payrollers and bureaucrats, nice fat raises, and too the rest of the money down many rat holes or up against thousands of walls.

Conceivably, one might be happier if he was the one doing the tossing — at least it would be the rat holes of his choice and the walls would be of his own selection.

We not only should be grateful for the joy brought to us by the federal income tax and the warm, cordial suggestions of the revenuers, but we can also be thankful that real estate tax time and state income tax time are here again, too.

We won't really get the good news on our real estate and personal property taxes for some time yet. It might be weeks, it might be months and conceivably it could be years before we actually know what our tax bills will be.

Before we can get the bills there must be a rate established to make the bills, and to make the rate the county clerk has to have the books setting forth the valuations as fixed by the assessor, the supervisors of assessments, and the board of review. It's of a pattern with the stick began to beat the dog, the dog began to bite, etc. — piece, but if one waits long enough the bill may reach you.

Of course, there may be a bit of delay before the board of review is through with the assessors' books. This being a quadrennial year the valuations placed on the real estate in Will County is all new stuff. That it is all high stuff too is indicated by the lists that have been published.

The residents of Frankfort Township had an opportunity to see the valuations that have been placed on their properties when the lists were published last week and the New Lenox people got their kicks a little earlier.

Yet to experience the joy of escalating valuations are Lockport people and those who reside in Joliet. You can just imagine their happy, gleeful shouts, when they find their valuations have been upped, "upped into the wild blue yonder."

A Frankfort man told me now very, very happy he was to find that some vacant property he has unsuccessfully attempted to sell for $16,000 has been given an assessed valuation of $20,000, so that if the assessed valuation is 50 percent of the fair market value of the property — as the state revenue department recommends — the party who turned down the property at $16,000 didn't know what a bargain it would be — a $4,000 paper profit, and you don't hardly ever get those kind any more.

The farmers are very happy too. Their land is worth so much now on the tax books that they are going to have to strike oil or uranium to pay their taxes, they say. If some of them are smiling through their tears it's just that they are emotional people.

When the board of review gets finished with reviewing all the complaints is problematical. According to law, one has 10 days after the tax list is published to file a complaint with the board of review. Whether anyone can get through the crowd around the board of review's office in 10 days is another question. But suppose you do get through and the board says, yes, indeed we will come out and take a gander at your premises as soon as we can. Just when that will be is difficult to figure.

It should be explained that the board of review is a board made up of human beings, subject to all the frailties of human beings. The board of review is not a computer so they can't go through these complaints, zip, zam, etc.

Open letter to Yuska

Editor:

An open letter to John Yuska, newly elected School District 228 board member.

There is something your best friends can't tell you and apparently your father-in-law, ex-board member Howard C. Briggs and Robert L. Bohman did not tell you. The letter they wrote, that according to your own words helped you to achieve a "good victory," was misleading and therefore misguided many of the voters.

In this letter Mr. Briggs and Mr. Bohman mention the Teachers Union of 228. This is a fallacy, because it is non-existent. What they are referring to is the individual faculty associations of each of our four high schools. Combined these are named the Joint Faculty Association of 228. Some teachers may have supported the balanced slate, but the faculty associations individually or collectively did not endorse any candidates for the board.

Teachers being human beings, citizens of the United States, we must assume they are allowed to support and vote for whom they choose. This is a Constitutional right. Last year some teachers supported the Clean Sweep candidates, along with many other citizens of the district. I was and am still proud to have been a member of the Clean Sweep Slate. We have never been the target of coercion or force by a teacher or group of teachers.

Never has there been pressure of any description brought to bear on my fellow candidates by anyone. Nobody owns any member of the Clean Sweep or Balanced Slate. This charge is totally false and reprehensible, indicative I would surmise of the suspicious mind from which it was conceived.

The teacher salary schedule is competitive with surrounding districts, and does run up to $19,947. Mr. Bohman and Mr. Briggs neglected to include that this income is achieved as a result of seven years of college and 17 years of service to the district. We must maintain a financial incentive to encourage quality teachers and thereby develop quality education for our students. Remember, John even teachers must eat, pay bills and occasionally buy a new pair of shoes. The last year in the district has been without strikes or teacher unrest. Why, because an atmosphere of mutual respect has dominated the relationship of teacher and board. The salary schedule of our teachers is public information John, ask for it the next time you are at the administrative center.

You will find that only one teacher in the entire district receives $19,947 a year. In fact ask your friends, neighbors and all 228 residents to inspect the salary schedule to erase doubts.

You mentioned that April 8th represented a "good victory," based somewhat on the effect of Mr. Briggs' and Mr. Bohman's letter. How can any election be "good" if it was the result of fear and misleading information. One of my sons John is three years younger than you, I would not want any young man to formulate opinions or make decisions based on misinformation. I'll help you John to get the facts. If you want my opinion, you may not like what you hear, but it will be my opinion based on the facts. You still have time to weave the philosophy of the late great Knute Rockne into the next year you may serve on the 228 board. Rockne said, "It doesn't matter if you win or lose, but how you play the game." Please tell your father-in-law, Mr. Briggs and Mr. Bohman.

A blood board says thanks

Editor:

The Board of the Joleen Watson Memorial Blood Program wish to thank all of the people who gave blood and also all of the people who tried to give blood but were deferred because of colds, temperatures, or other valid medical reasons and were not able to give at the last draw. 253 pints were drawn, which is 77 pints short of the goal. Over the course of a year 720 pints are needed to make the quota in order to cover everyone for an unlimited supply of blood for a year.

At this time I want to make a personal comment about the Joleen Watson Memorial Blood Program of Oak Forest.

The idea to create such a program sprang from my own family's personal tragedy two years ago. My youngest daughter, Joleen Lynette Watson, died with leukemia running rampant in her pain-wracked little body. The end came one cold morning in February, 1970, when nothing else was real.

While I knelt by her bed and held her, I saw a cold, final touch of something come into her body, and then peaceful comfort was on her face and with a little sigh she slipped away from me, forever gone. It didn't seem possible or real.

Since that time one thing has been very real; there are other children who have leukemia, hemophilia and other diseases and reasons for needing blood desperately. There are other children who suffer horribly, beyond the comprehension of any one not personally involved. And there are other families as totally unprepared as we were to go through such an ordeal. Some of these children and families live in Oak Forest.

The Joleen Watson Memorial Blood Program deals with one of the vital factors in the life of these children. Blood. Not only to replace the blood after use, but by having blood available for use when these children need it.

There have been other cases of leukemia in Oak Forest and I'm afraid there will be more. There are also other needs for blood; childbirth complicated by hemorrhaging, open-heart surgery, cancer victims, bleeding ulcers, accident victims and many more.

Does a personal tragedy have to strike before certain people will act? Does a public plea to help with the blood usage of a leukemia victim have to be made to motivate some people? Do you, yourself have to know the victim personally before you help, or does it have to be your own child that is stricken before you will do something?

The payment of a child's life is almost too much for a mother to bear, let alone have to consider the payment of seemingly irrelevant items after you have buried your child.

Blood is only a fraction of the total cost involved after death, in terms of life, time and money, but when the sick child needs blood to survive, blood, at that moment is the only consideration.

Doctors can "make" medicine and give it to people. That helps, certainly, but doctors cannot "make" blood if that is what is needed to keep life going. Doctors cannot put dollar bills in the bloodstream of a child and keep that child alive. Money will not do in this instance; right then and there, blood is needed and only blood will do.

The replacement of blood after the fact is very helpful and important, but it is more, much more important and helpful to have blood there and available for use when needed. That time of need can be soon — one week, one day or one hour from now for you, or your friend's child, or just an Oak Forester you don't even know. Does it really matter that you don't personally know the child?

If you do not donate blood, blood may not be available to a sick child, when it needed to actually save that child's life.

It is better to have the blood available to buy time with. I know, because blood transfusions bought Joleen six months extra life that the medicine could not do alone. That was time I would not trade for anything in this world or the next.

This is the reason I personally gave my permission for my daughter's name to be used on this program. This is why I work for this program and why I desperately hope it continues. Time. Time for these children that only real blood can buy, and in time, maybe a cure so all these children will have as much time as you will have had.

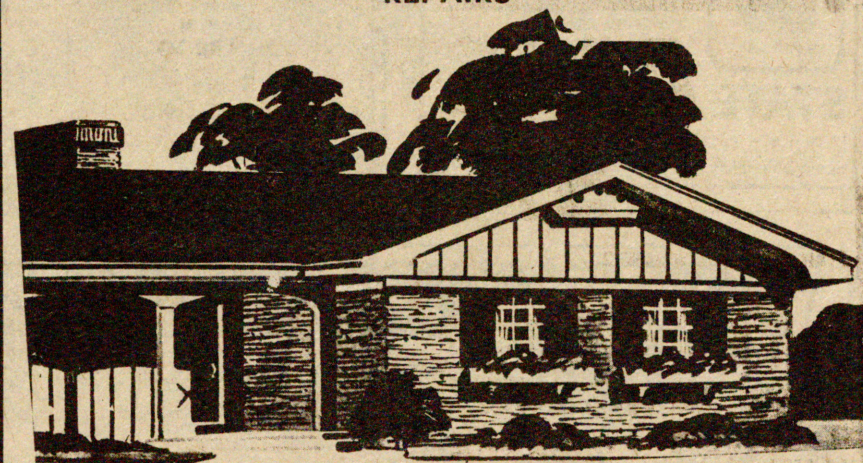

When you are asked to donate time and blood, please try to remember that every minute of a child's life is so precious, and your one unit of donated blood can buy that dying child a little more of it.

Don't say "not this weekend, I'm too busy, I already have plans," because the little girl or boy in the hospital may not be able to hold on long enough for you to help next week or next month at your personal convenience.

At this time, 33 separate cases in Oak Forest, since May 1, have been or are being handled by the program. You just don't know what person or persons will need it next — maybe you, or your own child.

BEVERLY WATSON
Oak Forest

Jaycees plan to march for drug center

SOUTHWEST Three local Jaycee Chapters are sponsoring a "March for Crossroads," a poly drug rehabilitation center with facilities located at the Tinley Park Mental Health Center. The march will start at 8 a.m. Saturday, May 27.

The Tinley Park, Oak Forest, and Country Club Hills Jaycee Chapters have invited Governor Richard Ogilvie, Senator Charles Percy and State Representative Leland Rayson to participate in the march against drug abuse.

Also invited to take part in the march are Bill Melton of the Chicago White Sox and Tom Boerwinkle, of the Chicago Bulls. The march is being coordinated by a committee of nine men. Committee members are Dennis Pettenon and Jim Jensen, Country Club Hills Jaycees; Mike Drinane, Ed Rumzisz and Bill Hughes, Oak Forest Jaycees; and Julian Avelis, Gene Tambellini, Blaine Sampson and Rich Gory of the Tinley Park Jaycees.

Other Tinley Park Jaycees involved with work against drug abuse are Bill Hennings, Ray Skarzynski, Ken Cramer, Wayne Rickerson, John Dadubec, Ron McNellis, Ron Royce and Ed Siemsen, chapter president.

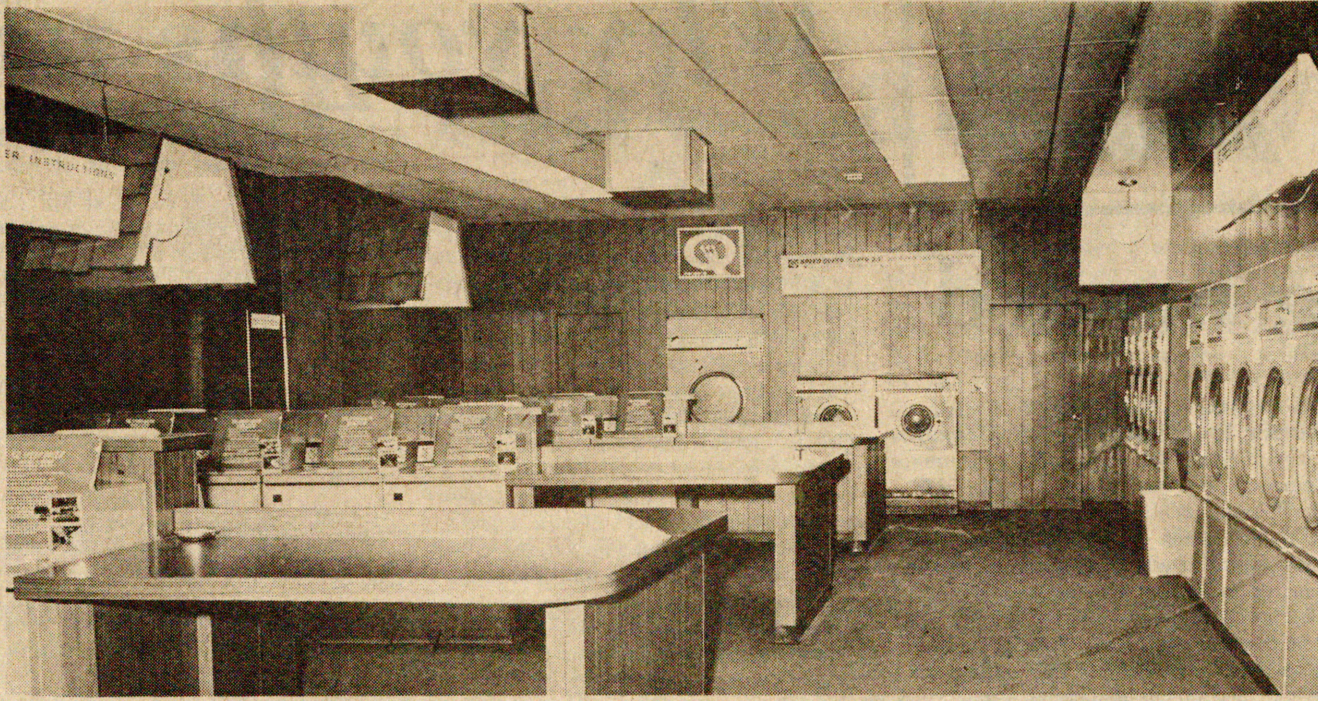

The march step off point in the Country Club Hills will be at the Hillcrest High School, 175th Street and Crawford Avenue; Oak Forest High School, 153rd Street and Central Avenue; and the Tinley Park K-mart parking lot, 159th Street and Harlem Avenue.

The three groups will march through the individual communities and come together at the Tinley Park High School, 6111 W. 175th Street, where the groups will gather and march to the Tinley Park Mental Health Center. The return trip will follow the same route.

Tinley Park Jaycee Don Rausmussen said, "Here is a chance for everyone to take some positive action to combat the drug problem. Although many national and state officials have pledged their support, the key to this endeavor's success lies with you, the marcher and the sponsor."

The sponsor can pledge any amount per mile. The purpose of the march is to raise money to buy needed rehabilitation materials for Crossroads.

Further information may be obtained by calling "The March Line," 532-4582.

Special education wing needed

The 228 Bremen Board at the March 28 meeting at Hillcrest received a delegation requesting that the special education wing about to be built at Oak Forest High School be relocated.

From my experience and training (Master of Education with a specialization in special education, from the University of Illinois), I think the delegation is absolutely correct. I think the worst place in the entire building to house special education youngsters would be beside a swimming pool.

The best place in a school to house special education youngsters is in the administrative wing. The fact that the administration of 228 is not willing to do this says to me that there is a more or less unconscious rejection of handicapped children by the administration of that district.

Three reasons for putting handicapped children within three or four doors of the office are:

1. So the administration will be personally involved on a full time basis with the special education contingent, as administrators are personally involved with all normal pupils.

2. So all the children in school will accept these individuals, and know them, and cherish them, and visit them in their class room, and be educated by them. Teachers and students alike can learn more from these crippled cherubs than from any book in any library.

3. To insure that they are completely involved in school life, thus fulfilling the constitutional provision: "A fundamental goal of the People of the State is the educational development of all persons to the limits of their capacity."

(Article X, Section 1.)

District 228 has a history of dragging its feet in Spec. Ed. Cooperative accomplishments. For instance, District 218 and District 230 have been integrating special education students in regular classes for several years, and have graduated them from high school when they have completed their work in the special education "course" or "track". Such graduation is established and approved practice, and much unhappiness has resulted from the 228 position on this point. It has amounted to downright discrimination against handicapped children, as far as Bremen is concerned.

From the perspective of my training and experience in special education, putting this class in a separate wing next to a boisterous facility like the school swimming pool is outright discrimination.

If the high school and district administration are not too rigid, if they are responsive to the voice of the parents, if they respect the opinions of the experts, they will quickly make the changes in the plans that will provide an acceptable facility in the heart of the school plant and in the hearts of the school people.

Sincerely,
DOROTHY H. KOCHER

Palmer thanks voters, paper

Editor:

I want to thank the Orland HERALD and its staff for their part in my successful re-nomination as a State Representative to the General Assembly.

I also want to thank the voters in the Orland Park area who voted for my re-nomination.

The advice and criticism of the press is vital to the intelligent operation of government.

I pledge myself to fairly represent all the people of the new 8th District.

Cordially,

State Representative

plained the varied activities of the police department.

Seeing their mailed letters processed at the post office and the demonstration of the many duties behind scenes as well as a talk with a mailman and explanation of a mail truck were all most interesting to the groups.

Our faculty, parents, students want to publicly thank those fine men and women who through their planning and efforts made a fine, smooth worthwhile experience for each individual child. In days when public servants often get critical headlines we join in thanking ours for an outstanding demonstration of courtesy and unselfish public relations.

Tinley Park Cares

Why youths use drugs

(The following is a continuation of a drug series offered by Tinley Park Cares.)

Here are some of the reasons given by youthful drug users for taking drugs, in a series of national surveys of young people in the high school-college age groups:

It is a way of "hitting back" at parents getting even with them for the 1,001 things parents do and make their children do in the growing-up process.

Taking drugs is a means of feeling love in general terms, not physical necessarily. Drugs are a way of returning to the basic fundamentals of life.

Some students said they felt drug experimentation was in this modern day, a means and part of growing up.

Many said words to the effect that it was enjoyable to see their parents get upset about something genuinely. In short, taking drugs seems a method of telling the "old man" to go to hell with his hypocrisy.

There were those who gave the excuse that drugs were a release from daily tensions and the heavy demands of school work and offered relief from frustrations and the feeling of defeat.

Naturally, to combat the drug problem, we must know facts about drugs, but perhaps even more important is knowing some of the basic reasons why youngsters are using drugs in this beautiful land of opportunity we call America. The above reasons are only a small fraction of the entire list, I am sure, but will give us all food for thought within our own personal family situations.

In trying to analyze drug misuse we must certainly bear in mind that children today are raised in a chemical society. They have come to know, from infancy, they can go to the doctor and get a shot for this ailment and a pill for that; it follows then that there is a good reason why children have built the impression they can be emotionally chemically for any physical or emotional problem. And, let's not forget the influence of TV. Wouldn't a child easily come to feel that there is a chemical cure for everything by watching television on commercials?

It has been reported that some of the best children, the articulate child who brings home good grades, and may often be a student body officer... even these youngsters are high on the list of drug abusers. So then, another reason for trying drugs comes to the front: to be one of the group, to be accepted as equal, to be recognized as an un-square.

Some experts in the field of drug abuse say that it is time for the "generation gap" and all such nonsense to come to a dead halt. In other words, now is probably the best time for parents to take the reins once again and find out what is going on among children. Let's begin to recognize the signs of a situation developing into a serious problem before it happens, instead of placing ourselves in the position of simply saying, "I'm sorry" after it happened.

There are many professional people, doctors, ministers, family counselors, and your public services, that stand ready to help you solve problems before they become catastrophic in nature. Don't wait too long... that child you save may be your own!

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER BY JIM HIRSCH

Medical science, surgical techniques and medications have made miraculous gains in recent years. The hospital is no longer just a place to die. Hospitals today are well girded to prevent untimely death. Along with these marvelous improvements, the hazards of living have multiplied beyond reason or comprehension. Day after day coroners' reports of D.O.A. "dead on arrival" appear far too often. Accidental deaths now number well over 100,000 per year.

Many of these unnecessary deaths occur because of panic. Panic will never be eliminated entirely but certain cautions can be taken to avoid it. Here they are:

1. Promise yourself that if and/or when you need an ambulance, fire truck or police, you WILL stay calm. 2. Give your name clearly and calmly. 3. Give EXACT address where help is needed. 4. Briefly answer any question as clearly and calmly as you can. 5. Don't give unnecessary information. 6. Say what you have to say in as few words as possible. REMEMBER these six suggestions! MEMORIZE them! It will help you have emergency help to arrive in time...

Residents complain

Broken tile may cause water back-up

NEW LENOX — Drainage problems are still claiming the attention of the village board. At its recent session Terry Small, who resides west of Cedar Road on Forest Street, was again before the board to complain of water and sewage backing up in his home.

Trustee Francis Miller said he found that a six-inch tile line coming down from the north has a broken tile and a lot of surface water is escaping and going into the sanitary sewer at Kimber Drive.

It was believed that many homes have connections with this tile and it may be that some of the downspouts also connect with it. Steps are to be taken to block this tile and Miller thinks this may solve some of the problems of Small and his neighbors.

Small says that he and his wife have counted 38 downspouts going into the ground within a radius of a few blocks of their residence. If these connect with the sanitary sewer, which is forbidden by state and village law, this could be a big source of trouble not only for those whose basements are flooding but for the sewage treatment plant well, it was said.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the village board Small invited any of its member or anyone else to view the conditions at his home as a result of the flooding.

Two households adjacent to the Village Square shopping complex, at Francis and Cedar Roads, have been complaining about run-off water from the parking area there. It was reported at a previous meeting that Bill Bolker, the developer, was willing to put in a curb at the rear of the parking lot to prevent the water from going onto the neighboring property but then the question came up as to where the water would go.

Trustee Robert Hutchings reported last Wednesday that Bolker said he would put in a tile line and a couple of catch-basins to shunt the water to Cedar Road but wanted the village to pay for it.

The village adopted a motion that this plan should be carried out at Bolker's expense. But according to a conversation with a representative of the HERALD Bolker said it would cost too much money for him to do it, as the state will not allow the water to be run-off on to Cedar Road unless there are catch basins and a storm sewer.

The village board is transferring a 100-foot square of land it had acquired from the park board back to that body. The property is located near the Lions Den and was acquired as a possible well site. Since it is no longer needed for this purpose the property is to go back to the park district again.

At the request of the New Lenox State Bank the alley at the rear of the property between Cedar and Pine Streets, will be one-way west for the duration of the new construction in progress at the bank. Members of the village board received an invitation from Carl A. Mietsner, commander of Harry E. Anderson VFW Post 9545, to participate in the annual Memorial Day parade which will be held May 29. The parade is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. and will form on St. Jude School grounds. It will move north on Cedar Street to Haven Avenue, then west to Maplewood Cemetery.

The village board granted the request of the VFW post to hold its annual street sale of poppies on May 19-20. The poppies are made by disabled servicemen and the proceeds from the sale go to aid such veterans, their wives and children.

Mayor Joseph Hartung issued a proclamation urging the public to buy and wear a poppy as a mark of respect for those who have sacrificed much in the service of the country.

Young scientists take top honors

FRANKFORT — Two of Frankfort Grade Schools three entries in the South Suburban Regional Science Show at the Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, received first place awards and invitations to the state exposition, May 13, at the University of Illinois. The third Frankfort entry was given a third place award.

Receiving first place awards were Roy Johnson and Greg Freeh. Their project carried the title, "Is There Any Spice in Your Life?" The other award went to Helene Romb and Sharon Jacezak. The project entered by the girls demonstrated "The Effect of Centrifugal Force on Mice."

Mary Hendricks and Hope Mossell won third place with their project showing "The Effects of Vocal Tones on Plants." The state science fair will be held in the assembly hall on the Champaign campus of the University. The fair is open to the public.

Co-sponsors for the Frankfort entries were the junior high school science instructors, Kenneth Reiss and Ronald Elmore.

In the space program animals and a centrifuge are used to obtain data on effects of gravity on other planets.

In the experiment by Helene and Sharon a record player, revolving at 78 r.p.m. was used for a centrifuge. Two baby mice were selected from the same litter, with both being of equal weight. One of them was placed in a cage and the cage was placed on the turn table of the record player.

It was found, according to Reiss, that while the mouse with the revolving home was healthy enough it was constantly thrust against the side of the cage by the circular motion, and its growth was much slower than that of the control mouse.

The spice program also used mice. According to Reiss there is a theory that the reason why the majority of Mexicans are not tall is that their consumption of hot and spicy food retards growth.

The boys operating this experiment had two groups of mice, one which ate hot spices and the other didn't. The seed of hot peppers enjoyed by many Mexicans — and the seed is the hottest part — was mixed with their other food for the mice. The experiment showed, Reiss said, that the spice eating mice did not become as large as the group that abstained from the spices.

In the experiment conducted by Mary Hendricks and Hope Mossell there were three sets of corn plants started. One set had only sunshine and water. The second batch, in addition to sun and water, was talked to every day. It was given words of encouragement and exhorted to out do the other groups of corn. The third group of corn plants the girls addressed in harsh scolding tones, and belittled and downgraded its efforts to grow.

According to Reiss the corn that was talked to grew better than the batch that had the silent treatment and that the one talked to in tones of tender, loving care grew better than the ones talked to harshly.

Bell views past, future

FRANKFORT — A look into the past and a glimpse into the future in communications will highlight the Illinois Bell Telephone Community Night Theater in the Frankfort Grade School gymnasium the evening of May 9. Refreshments will be served and there are no tickets to buy nor any admission price to pay.

Announcement of the program, to which everyone is invited, was made by C.W. Cremer, manager of the Bell system serving Frankfort, Mokena and nearby areas.

The program is to include a variety of telephone displays and a special, entitled "Mr. Penny Packer and his Machine," a combination film, slide and live narration look at communications in the past, present and future. The talk features Don Jurgens, talk demonstration specialist for Illinois Bell.

Highlighting the several exhibits to be set up especially for this event, will be a picturephone display with two working units. Visitors will be able to talk over the closed-circuit system as well as view the person with whom they are talking.

Other exhibits will include a mechanical tic-tac-toe machine and the "Voice Mirror," which enables listeners to hear their own voices on the telephones as others hear it.

"We've planned a very interesting evening for the whole family," said Cremer.

"Besides the entertainment part of the program, area residents will have an opportunity to discuss any aspect of their telephone service with us.

"We'll have on hand some men and women who work behind the scenes and make the phones work. We'll have a service representative and an operator, an account salesman and a communications serviceman.

"We're hoping many of our customers will take advantage of the program and come out and see us," Cremer concluded. "We believe they'll find the program both informative and entertaining." The refreshments will be served by the Frankfort School Band Parents.

Man gives self up; says he slayed wife

NEW LENOX — Date for a preliminary hearing for Jeffrey L. Beaman, 23, formerly of 1219 Gordon St. on a charge of slaying his wife, Barbara, 25, has been set for April 28. Public Defender Thomas Vinson has been appointed by Judge John Lang as counsel for the defendant.

Beaman is being held without bond in the Will County jail on a charge of murder. He surrendered to state police April 18. He had called police from Lockport Township, allegedly told them what he had done and waited for them to pick him up. He has been working at the Ceco Steel Plant at Lemont.

He accompanied members of the detective division of state police to the trailer home on Gordon Street, where the body of his wife was found, an electric cord knotted about her neck and the other end of the cord tied to a door knob. Mrs. Beaman had been stabbed three times in the buttocks, according to Coroner Willard G. Blood, and had slashes on the breast, her right side and arm, and a finger on her right hand was cut as if she had attempted to defend herself.

She had lost considerable blood, the coroner said, but he believed the direct cause of death to have been asphyxiation from the noose. The victim was a small woman, about 5-2" and weighing around 120 pounds.

The slaying took place sometime after 10 p.m. April 17, according to the coroner. Mrs. Frank Corrao, 4478 Grand Ave., Chicago, Mrs. Beaman's mother, was visiting her until that time when she left for home.

Police arrest youths

FRANKFORT — Joseph L. Mejdrick, 18, of 19528 Beechnut Street in Mokena and a 16-year-old youth also from Mokena were arrested by Will County Sheriff's deputies on April 12 for burglary at the Frankfort Rod and Gun Club.

According to police reports, Mejdrick and his alleged accomplice were surprised while they were inside the house trailer residence of Mrs. Linda Martin. Mrs. Martin upon returning to her home, on the property of the Rod and Gun Club, at about 1:30 a.m. saw the suspects.

She called Lt. James Stryger of the sheriff's police who dispatched Deputies Calvin Yoder and Robert Ooley to investigate.

Upon arriving, the deputies learned that the suspects had run towards the Rock Island Railroad tracks nearby.

After obtaining a description of the youths from Mrs. Martin and calling for assistance, the deputies assisted by Illinois State Police Troopers Pecout and Pena apprehended the suspect youths.

The suspects indicated that their car had broken down in Tinley Park and that while walking home they entered the Martin residence to escape the rain. Property from the Martin home was found in their possession when they were searched after being arrested.

Gala event Sunday

FRANKFORT — A gala grand opening celebration will take place Sunday afternoon, April 30 from 2 to 6 p.m. at the new location of Behnke Studios and Alcon Decorators Ltd. Frankfort's Mannheim Square, 20500 S. LaGrange Road (Route 45).

Mayor Glenn Warning will officially "cut the ribbon" to start the affair at 2 p.m. The building is of old English design and sets on five acres of rolling hillside. It houses a real estate office, restaurant, dress shop, decorator-gift shop and photography studio. Features of the lower level include dark rooms, labs, print and framing rooms. Also featured are art classes by G. J. Reeves of Reeves School of Art. Plans for decorating classes are being formulated for the near future.

An English garden is planned outside the main camera room, on the ground level, enabling outdoor setting during the warmer seasons. Al Behnke's award winning work will be displayed throughout the studio.

A special feature in the decorator shoppe will be the cutting of a 10 lb. slab of "natural strawberry soap," which will be given to those attending. A video taped program on decorating tips will also be shown thru-out the day. It was made possible by the Syrocco showroom, in Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

The bold invaders

FRANKFORT — Mrs. Louis Johnson, Illinois Street, at the north end of Connecticut Hills is again complaining about a plague of rats in that area, it was reported to the Frankfort village board by Mayor Glenn Warning.

The mayor told the board that he was in receipt of a complaint by Mrs. Johnson that rats had boldly invaded the area again. More than a year ago she had voiced a similar complaint.

The village does not have an exterminator on its staff. Woodpiles, rubbish heaps and garbage out in the open serve as breeding spaces and food sources for the pests, it was said, and village officials are asking the cooperation of all residents in keeping the community clean as a means of discouraging a rat population.

sible by the Syrocco showroom, in Chicago's Merchandise Mart.

All shoppes in the square will be celebrating the grand opening with gifts, door prizes and refreshments.

Al and Connie Behnke, owners of the Square, extend a warm invitation to all in the area to help them celebrate.

In The News

Frankfort sends two

FRANKFORT — Two representatives of the Frankfort grade school board attended the national convention of school board members and administrators at San Francisco last week. Melvin Eisenbrandt, board president, and Supt. Leroy Olson made the trip as official delegates of the Frankfort school system. They were accompanied by their wives but the expenses of the trip for the wives were borne by the husbands. Also with the Frankfort delegation were Mr. and Mrs. James Wrath, assistant county superintendent of schools. Approximately 400 attended the affair from this region, making the trip via two chartered jets.

Frankfort text topic

FRANKFORT — The village of Frankfort occupies a considerable space in a Social Science series published by Addison Wesley Publishing Co. of Menlo, Calif., for distribution as a textbook destined for second grades.

The series is a part of the Taba Program in Social Science that is used by schools in various parts of Illinois and other states. The Frankfort grade school system does not use this series, which was only recently released, but it has several copies of the second grade book for its library so it is available to local pupils. "People in Neighborhoods" is its title.

There are numerous pictures, in color, of streets scenes and buildings of Frankfort in the text, with prominence given those taken at the annual Frankfort Fall Festival. The story line deals with a Frankfort family.

Some months ago Attorney Herbert P. Folkers Sr. received a letter from the publishing firm containing numerous questions about Frankfort.

Folkers answered the questions and gave them some additional information. Recently he received a copy of the book and a letter of thanks from the publishers.

Bike crackdown planned

FRANKFORT — Bicyclists are required to follow the same rules and regulations as laid down for motor vehicles. Police Chief T.A. Massey wished to remind bicyclists of that community.

Beginning May 1, he said, Frankfort police will begin enforcing the bicycle ordinance adopted by the village. Cyclists are required to ride on the right side of streets and highways and obey all traffic signs, including stops and one-ways.

All bike owners in Frankfort are required to have a license. The license may be obtained at the village hall and the fee is $1 for permanent registration. A record of the serial number of the bike, its make and model, and the name of the owner are kept on record, which makes it easier to identify bikes found or picked up by police.

On May 7 the annual bike rodeo and safety tests will be staged on the Frankfort grade school grounds between 12 noon and 4 p.m., Chief Massey said.

Truck, van crash kills one

FRANKFORT — One man was killed and two were injured, one seriously, in a head-on collision between a pick-up truck and a small van last Saturday about 7:30 p.m. The crash took place on the curve on U.S. 30 about a mile west of U.S. 45.

Killed was Enrique Hilario Jr., 25, of Steger, driver of the van. Hospitalized is the driver of the pick-up, Charles W. Sparklin, 40, 318 Willow St., Frankfort. Johnny Hilario, 19, brother of the dead man, was taken to Silver Cross Hospital in the Frankfort Community Chapel Ambulance. He was treated and released. Sparklin, whom state police say crossed the midline of the highway and hit the van head-on was ticketed on a charge of wrong lane usage. He is hospitalized at Silver Cross. Sparklin was driving east.

The Hilario brothers were west bound on U.S. 30 to Joliet where they were to play at a dance Saturday night. They had a number of band instruments in the van that were scattered about the area by the crash. Those picking up the instruments put them in the pick-up thus giving rise to the story they were being carried by Sparklin.

The body of the crash victim was taken to Frankfort Community Chapel and after preparation was sent to San Benito, Tex., where funeral services will be held.

Spring forward! Got it?

MOKENA — It is that time again, folks, when one changes time. Daylight time begins the last Sunday in April, which will be the one coming up.

It is easy to remember which way to turn the hands — spring forward, and fall back. Theoretically you lose an hour of sleep now when you push the clock up an hour and you make it up when you turn the hands back on the last Sunday in October.

It is claimed by some that daylight time was pushed through by tennis and golf equipment manufacturers, makers of lawnmowers and garden tools, morning newspapers and saloonkeepers, all of whom profit from the longer day.

Taxes! Taxes! Taxes! The roar is on. It seems as though the Frankfort Township Assessor really took care of Prestwick and the rest of the township as well. We had the pleasure of visiting the offices of the Board of Review of the Will County Assessor recently.

From what we saw and heard, nearly everyone in the township had an increase in assessment from 20 per cent to 70 per cent and nearly everyone had filed a complaint. According to well-informed sources,

NEW LENOX — William P. Sexton, son of retired U. S. Air Force Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. Ralph E. Sexton, 236 W. Francis Road, recently was commissioned an officer in the USAF Reserve.

He began training at the USAF School of Health Care Sciences at Sheppard AFB, Tex., as a second lieutenant.

Upon completion of the 15 week health services administration officer course, the lieutenant will be assigned at the USAF Regional Hospital, Chanute AFB, Ill.

Lieutenant Sexton, who enlisted in the Air Force in December 1969, had earned the rank of sergeant and was serving as a radio equipment repairman at Altus AFB, Okla., when he received his reserve commission.

A 1965 graduate of Lincoln-Way High School, he has a B.S. degree in general management from Southern Illinois University.

FRANKFORT — Midshipman Calvin R. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Davis, 214 Center Road, Frankfort, has been named to the superintendent's list for leadership and academic excellence at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

He is scheduled to graduate in early es, the tax bills for the county won't be mailed until around July 1. If that's the case, the county will be paying a fortune in interest to area banks for tax anticipation warrants to keep services running until tax money comes in.

Revenue from the July 1 bills won't be due until Sept. 1 which is normally the date for the second and final real estate tax bill payment.

Late in 1971, county officials waged a concerted battle and failed to be able to consolidate elections to save the taxpayers money. It's a pity that an equal effort was not put forth to get the tax bills out on time.

The new home being constructed behind and along side the Tim Considine residence on Aberdeen Road has been vandalized on several occasions. Will County Police almost caught someone there recently. Neighbors can do each other a considerable service if they will call the Will County Police (1-727-6191) whenever they see anything suspicious. The Sheriff's Police would prefer to scare would-be vandals and burglars away before they damage or steal by their presence. Although capture of these vandals and burglars is important, it is more important to stop damage and theft. Be a good neighbor.

Virginia and Alton Baird of Pheasant Trail recently returned from a driving vacation. The Appalachian Art Connoisseurs (they bought everything in sight) really made a trip of it going first to Gatlenberg, Tenn. They then drove down to Marco Island, Fla. (we will call this stop the second home for all Prestwick residents) and Ft. Lauderdale. From the fun and sun of Florida up they went to South Carolina to visit the estate of the Vanderbilts. Alton wanted to see their drapes. The route home was via the Blue Ridge Mountain Drive. In spring, their vacation route is perhaps one of the finest in the USA.

Alice Hraha of Pheasant Trail recently returned home from a two-week trip to Florida where she visited with her parents. The rest of the family stayed home in the cold.

We just met Prestwick's latest ski gimp, Dr. Leo Knaff of Vieux Carre. Somehow or other he snuck off to Colorado to ski with his kids where he broke his leg. I wonder who set it? It does not slow him down at all. Between Leo Knaff and Mark Krum-dick, it proves the point that age does not prevent disaster.

Our condolences to Ann and Henry Olivieri of Hawthorne Dr. upon the passing of Ann's father, Evaristo Giannoni, last Friday.

Welcome to our new neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, who recently moved into Vieux Carre. They join our community after having lived for three years in Oak Lawn. The Mitchell's have one son, Brian, 19, who is a sophomore at Marquette Uni-summer, and at that time will be awarded a bachelor of science degree and commissioned an ensign in the Navy. He is a 1968 graduate of Lincoln-Way High School.

NEW LENOX — Airman Richard T. Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Ford, 611 Ogden Road, New Lenox, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the training course for U.S. Air Force, technical instructors.

Airman Ford, now qualified to plan and teach lessons in technical courses, will remain at Sheppard as an instructor in the aircraft maintenance technicians course.

He attended Lincoln-Way High School. His wife, Teresa, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Turner Turan, 601 S. Circle Drive, Wilmington, Ill.

NEW LENOX — Airman Gregory J. Gonda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aloys A. Gonda, 717 S. Cedar Road, New Lenox, has completed his U.S. Air Force basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex.

He has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Tex., for training in accounting and finance. Airman Gonda is a 1969 graduate of Lincoln-Way High School and attended Illinois State University, Normal, Illinois.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

Jean Wille

A new look at Suburban Living

SOUTHWEST — "This section should be more than 'women's pages' or 'society news,'" says Jean Wille, our new Suburban Living editor. "We want to include articles of interest to the entire family, not just to women."

Jean is already familiar to our Tinley Park readers; for the last two years, she has been our general assignment reporter in Tinley. The TIMES-HERALD recently won the communications award of the Mental Health Association of Greater Chicago; much of the credit for this honor can go to Jean for her series, "The Special Child."

As Suburban Living editor, Jean will employ the same skill and enthusiasm that has won so much praise from readers. "There will be at least one feature a week," she says. "We welcome news of men's and women's civic organizations, church groups and village events."

"Husband-wife teams in business, social or civic activities will be a favorite subject for features," says Jean. "But we will also do individual spotlights on unusual or outstanding personalities."

"Information sheets for wedding news are available at our Tinley Park office."

says Jean. "All kinds of pictures will be considered for our pages, but candid shots are preferred." Jean reminds readers that the deadline for news is Friday afternoon.

Jean, a lifelong resident of Tinley Park, is married. She and her husband, Harold, have three daughters. Her own hobbies include painting and sailing; she is an organist, "strictly for relaxation and sing-a-longs." She has been a Sunday School teacher at Zion Lutheran Church and is a past member of the Tinley Park PTA board.

Palos Women have card fun

PALOS HEIGHTS The Palos Heights Woman's Club recently held a dinner and couples bridge evening at Silver Lakes Country Club. First place was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. William Bartelt; second place, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schmitt; third place, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Welge; fourth place, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Kinney; and fifth place, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thiesfeld.

The past 1971-72 club season has been one of the most rewarding in the history of the club, says Mrs. Lee Thiesfeld, president.

The club donated $4,126.80 to local, district, and state charities.

However, community projects are first in the hearts of the Palos women, and no request for funds is turned down without a thorough investigation and discussion of the plea. Philanthropies change through the years and needs are greater in one area than another at certain times.

Great appreciation is due a community which supports a service organization and the members of the Woman's Club express their gratefulness for this support and look forward to another successful club season.

Local girl is published

OAK FOREST Mary Therese Franke, 15608 1/2 Lamont Ave., Oak Forest, has an article printed in the April issue of Illinois History magazine — a publication for teen-agers sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society.

Mary Therese is a 1971 graduate of Tinley Park High School. She attended Northern Illinois University since graduation and is presently employed in Chicago. She majored in history and English and is yet undecided about a future career.

Mary is a member of St. Damian Church and is interested in sewing and music. She lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Franke, sisters, Amelia, Pauline and Susan and brother Alfred.

Following is a reprint of Mary Therese's article.

When the Chicago Fire raged through the city in 1871, one of the houses that did not burn was at 800 South Halsted Street. This building later was known as Hull-House and was the site of one of the most important reform centers in the City of Chicago. The mansion had been built by Charles Hull in 1856.

After the neighborhood changed, it became a secondhand store and then an old folks' home. In 1889 a school furniture factory occupied the first floor, and the second floor was rented out to lodgers.

In the spring of 1889 Jane Addams, daughter of an affluent Cedarville, Illinois, family, came to Chicago to live among the poor in order to help them. Most of Miss Addams' friends thought she was foolish, but she answered them by saying, "You think I'm going to try to scoop up the ocean with a teaspoon, don't you?" Her friends' doubts did not discourage her; she went on with her dream. Along with her friend Ellen Starr she began searching the city for a perfect location. They came upon Hull-House and decided this was it. They rented the house and began the long hard task of cleaning it up. On Sept. 14, 1889, they first occupied the house and also added a new member to the staff, Miss Mary Keyser.

At first the people in the neighborhood were very suspicious of the new residents of Hull-House. They wondered why rich people would come to live in their neighborhood. To gain the confidence of the people, the young women began to invite the women of the community in for tea. Then they began to have socials on Friday and Saturday nights. The people began to put faith in the women of Hull-House. They would leave their children there during the day, and Hull-House became one of the first day-care centers for the poor in Chicago.

Hull-House also offered many other services. The center loaned out pictures to the people in the area to dress up drab homes. It served as a place for recreational, educational, and cultural activities for people of different racial and ethnic origins. By the time of Miss Addams' death in 1935, Hull-House had grown from one building to thirteen.

It's true, Uncle Sam wants her

By Jean Wille

Women's Liberation definitely has its drawbacks.

As a mother of three daughters I have never been personally involved in the thought of having one of my offspring "go into the service."

Last week, one of our daughters received a letter from the Department of the Army. It was the first letter from the Department of the Army that I had ever seen.

The thoughts that run through a mother's mind at such a time were unknown to me prior to the arrival of said piece of mail.

My first thought was "No," they can't be serious. Not my curly haired little girl. They can't draft my infant daughter just because she is almost 18 years old.

Yes, I know that mothers with sons have been going through this since wooden horses first came into being, but "Trojan daughters" were probably limited to braiding the horses tails and "Trojan mothers" felt secure about their female offspring staying in back of the lines of battle.

However, the letter was not a draft notice. It is apparently being sent to all senior high school girls. It was marked "Senior Survey Card" (Female)

It had little squares for vital information such as: height, marital status, plans after graduation, etc. It also listed a number of training courses available in the Women's Army Corps.

There were 29 courses listed including photography, physical therapy, neuropsychiatric procedures, intelligence, communications, meteorological observer, medical courses and operating procedures.

"If you have some of the wanderlust in you," the letter stated," the Army gives you the opportunity to travel throughout the United States and abroad. You will meet and work with young men and women who share the same interests."

My second thought regarding this letter was that they've got a lot of nerve offering my daughter a set of fatigues and if she's real lucky, her own pith helmet.

My third thought was, "what an opportunity."

I scanned the list of offered courses again. Towards the end of the list was "Journalism."

How exciting. Studying interesting courses and traveling — while salaried. No cooking. Probably minimum cleaning chores.

One quick phone call dispelled all hopes. The Army does not take married women unless legally separated or divorced. Worse than that — the age limit is 32 years of age.

WSCS to feature crafts demonstration

TINLEY PARK — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the United Methodist Church, 6875 W. 173rd Place, will hold a "Craft Demonstration" on Thursday, April 27, 7:30 p.m. Each lady is asked to bring pencil and paper to take notes on how to make the articles demonstrated.

The next general meeting of the Women's Society will be May 2, 9:45 a.m. — coffee at 9:15 a.m. The youth minister, Dennis Johnson will be the speaker.

The annual Mother-Daughter Together-Annekt will be held Thursday, May 11, 6:30 p.m. A catered roast beef dinner has been arranged by Hope Circle. The cost of the dinner ticket is $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for children 12 years of age and under. The deadline for reservations is Friday, May 5.

The program and decorations will be handled by the Esther Circle. There will be a parade of wedding dresses dating from 1903-72 modeled by women of the church. Also, there will be the usual toast and awards to the daughters, mothers, and grandmothers.

Couple wed in candlelight service

Karen Ann Albers and George D. VanDyke were united in holy wekklock, Feb. 27, at a candlelight ceremony at Trinity Lutheran Church, Crete.

Karen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Albers, 16760 Oak Park Ave., and George, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. VanDyke, 292 W. 16th Place, Chicago Heights, exchanged rings and vows before an altar decorated with arrangements of candles and carnations.

The Reverend A.T. Kretzman performed the ceremony. Organist Roger Klockziem accompanied soloist, Cheryl Grafnitz, to the "Wedding Payer," as the couple approached the altar; the "Wedding Song," after the sermonette; and "The Lord's Prayer," after the exchange of rings and vows.

Karen's gown, of heavy white satin with Brussels alencon lace, was fashioned with long sleeves embedded with lace from the shoulder to the wrist. The empire waist, with its full skirts, had the lace repetition in front. The long train converted to a bustle for the reception. Her elbow length veil was attached to her lace and beaded headpiece; her nosegay bouquet was of white roses, baby's breath and spider mums.

The maid of honor was Juanita Stone of Crete. The bridesmaids were Sheila Horath and Charlene Benck, sister of the bride. The flower girl was Tamara Benck, the bride's niece. The attendants wore ruby-velvet, empire-waisted gowns with pink crepe bodices, sheer sleeves, trimmed with ruby red ribbon running through pink lace. Their headpieces were ruby red velvet and pink veiling. Each carried a white maribu muff set with a cascade of pink carnations. Tamara carried rose petals and carnation petals in her basket.

Howard Rosen, Chicago Heights, was best man. Other attendants of the groom were Joe Cumbo, Midlothian, and Jim Benck, brother-in-law of the bride. Ushers were Keith Albers, Peotone, cousin of the bride and Rick VanDyke, brother of the groom. Ring bearer was Johnny Dicks, Homewood, nephew of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Albers chose a long, full sleeved pink gown with gold and semi-precious stones detailing the trim.

Mrs. VanDyke wore a Nile green dress with long sheer sleeves. Both gowns were floor length and both mothers wore a white orchid.

The reception at Cherry Hills Country Club was attended by 160 guests from Cedar Lake, Indiana, Chicago and Moline, Charles Wolf, Tinley Park, grandfather of the bride, was an honored guest. Sandar Albers, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

A cocktail hour preceded the dinner. Music was by the Moonlighters.

The young couple will be at home at 378 Dogwood Drive, Park Forest.

Karen graduated from Crete-Monee High School in 1969, and the American School of Beauty Culture, Harvey. She is presently employed at the Plaza Beauty Salon, Park Forest.

George graduated from Blom Township High School in 1969 and served with the US Navy. He is now employed by the Tinley Park Post Office.

Sandburg surprising SW conference foes

By Dave Lumley

The Eagles of Carl Sandburg have opened some eyes of unsuspecting head baseball coaches around the area this spring with their 3-1 record in Southwest Suburban play.

Sandburg, which is supposed to be in a re-building year with five juniors and two sophomores in the lineup, has breezed by Lincoln-Way and Rich East by identical 5-2 scores and upset high touted Oak Lawn 8-7.

The Eagles only conference loss was a short five inning affair with conference leaders and defending champion Reavis.

Sandburg which was picked no higher than sixth in the eight team league has now established themselves as a definite contender.

Against Lincoln-Way Bill Edwards; a big, righthander, stopped the Knights on two hits. Edwards posted four strikeouts and three walks.

Sandburg then hosted Oak Lawn, a team favored to finish first or second, and put two runs across in each of the last two innings to rally to beat the Spartans 8-7.

Tom Ormsby went six innings before giving way to Jeff King, who not only got credit for the win but also knocked home the tying run with a line single to centerfield. Junior Al Barnett scored the winning run on a wild pitch. The Eagle's bubble was busted, however, when on a rainy, misty day at Sandburg John Olmstead of Reavis threw a five inning no-hitter at them. Olmstead struck out four and walked three.

Reavis scored twice in the second inning and once in the third to knock the Eagles from the unbeaten ranks and out of first place. The final read 3-0, Rams.

Sandburg stands in second place with a 3-1 mark behind 4-0 Reavis. Behind Reavis and Sandburg stands Oak Lawn (2-1), Homewood (2-1), Evergreen Park (1-2), and Bremen, Lincoln-Way, and Rich East all (1-3).

Sandburg plays Bremen at home Monday, travels to Homewood Tuesday, and Evergreen Park on Wednesday, and then hosts Rich East on Friday.

Titans on top in SE action

TINLEY PARK — Combining heavy hitting with strong pitching by a pair of juniors Tinley Park's Titans found themselves on top of the Southeast Conference baseball race at the end of last week's action.

The Titans, 4-2 for the season, are 3-1 in the conference, and have really been socking the ball in recent games. Mike Kraft is 7 for 12 in league games followed by Ed Neal, 6 for 12, and Kirby Bullard, 5-12.

Although Coach Dale Delaney has indicated he would like his pitching to be a little stronger, it's hard to see how any veteran moundmen could do much better than the junior pair of John Beacham and John O'Connell. Beacham posted two of the Titans' three wins last week as they opened their league season and O'Connell got the other victory.

The Titans beat Thornton Fractional South 8-4 in their league debut, and then beat TFS again two days later, 3-2. Saturday Beacham pitched his second league win 10-1 over Hillcrest, but the Titans streak was stopped in the second game of a doubleheader with the Hawks, 6-1.

Catcher Don Kirksey, Tim Stone and Vince Pignatello have also been playing some fine ball for the Titans this year.

Records fall to Knights

NEW LENOX — Area track power Lincoln-Way ran to three easy wins last week as the Knights moved to a 5-0 record. Lincoln-Way opened the week by beating Reavis 75-52, and then topped Providence and Lockport in a triangular meet. Lincoln-Way had 84 points to 28 for Providence and 25 for Lockport.

The Knights concluded the week with a 94-33 win over Bremen.

Lincoln-Way concluded the week by fourth in the Bloom Invitational Saturday despite three record breaking performances. wood of Chicago was third with 26 points, Thornridge second with 36, and hosting Bloom first with 56 points.

John Pirkio, set a new school record and turned in the best performance in the area this season when he won the high jump at 6-3. The jump broke Pirkio's old record of 6-2 set last year.

John Been set the best time for the mile this season by finishing second in the mile in 4:26.5. Mike Muffet of Thornridge won the event in 4:24.4, turning on the speed to beat Been in the final 100 yards.

Been came back to win the two-mile clocking the area's best time this year with a 9:48.0. Been's best time prior to the Bloom meet this season had been 9:56.

Terry Ryan won the high hurdles in 15:3, and ran second in the lows in :20.4 and third best time in the area in the event this year.

Against Bremen, the Knights won all but two events the 880-relay and the discus, and tied one when Mark Maxwell finished in a tie at 10-0 in the pole vault.

John Kollman won the 100 in :11.0, and Pat Loftus took the 220 in :25.5.

Lee Erickson won the 440 in 54.0, and Bruce Reynolds dashed home at 2:10.0 in the 880.

Been was the mile and two mile winner in 4:50.0 and 10:07.0. Ryan was a double winner in the hurdles in :16.0 and :22.0.

The Knights won the mile relay in 3:45.0. John Phillips, who broke the areas shot record against Reavis, turned a winning toss of 53-10. Pirkio won the high jump at 5-10, and Maxwell took the long jump in 19-10.

In the triangular Ryan was a double winner in the hurdles and Maxwell was a double winner in the long jump and discus as the Knights won nine events. The pole vault and high jump were cancelled because of weather conditions.

Phillips tied the area record for the shot put with a winning toss of 55-1 1/2.

Lincoln-Way diamond squad posts first win

NEW LENOX — After three straight losses the Lincoln-Way baseball team suddenly found the winning formula, at least for two games last week.

After losing 5-2 to Southwest Suburban Conference foe Sandburg the Knights bounced back with a non-league 5-4 win over Plainfield, and then kept it going with a 3-2 league decision over Rich East.

All of the Knight's runs against Rich were unearned and came in the bottom of the sixth. Dave Webster got the win tossing a three hitter.

The game was scoreless through the first five innings until Rich pushed two runs across in the sixth.

With one out in the bottom of the sixth Webster reached on a two base error, and after another out Tom Wolfson singled scoring Webster. Don Krohn was safe on an error, and Bob Lindeman doubled home both runners.

The Knights pulled off an eight inning three run rally to beat Plainfield. Krohn homered and Tom Wilson had a two run triple as the Knights got their first win of the season. Miss Hossbach got the win in relief.

Lincoln-Way scored in the first inning on a walk and a triple by Don Reinhart. Plainfield countered with a pair in the bottom of the first.

Krohn tied it up with his homer in the seventh sending the game into extra innings.

In the eighth Wilson tripled home a pair and scored the winning run on an error.

Defense beat the Knights in the Sandburg game as they committed three errors.

Knights next foe for Eagles

ORLAND PARK — This afternoon the Sandburg track team traveled to New Lenox, Illinois to face Lincoln-Way High. Lincoln-Way's track team, who is strong in all fifteen of the track events according to Sandburg Coach Gene Kowert.

After last week's split in their first two conference meets, the Eagles chances to improve their track record looked mighty slim against the Knights. Thursday the Eagles host a week Rich East, Last year the Rockets nipped the Eagles in a meet at Rich East but reportedly lost some talent to graduation.

Last Tuesday in the conference opener the Eagles walloped the Bremen Braves, winning 13 of 15 events.

The Eagles delighted the home crowd dominating both the field and track events. On Thursday the Sandburg trackers lost a heartbreaker to Homewood Flossmoor, 65-62.

Providence romps past 2 league foes

NEW LENOX — One wonders what the score would have been if the game had gone the full seven innings. Providence had a baseball romp last week in its second game of the young Private League season beating Chicago Christian 22-0.

The Celtics scored 10 runs in the fifth inning, and the game was stopped under the high school rule that limits action to only five innings when a team is ahead by more than 10 runs.

Rick Baranak drove in eight runs with a grand slam homer a bases loaded triple and a double. Butch Markelz pitched a one-hitter for the win.

Markelz tossed his fourth one-hitter of the season and has allowed five hits and struck out 69 in winning all five of his starts this year.

In a non-league game against Romeoville the Celtics rallied for four runs in the sixth to overcome a 7-6 deficit and went on to win 12-9. Providence was helped by eight Romeoville errors.

Markelz worked in relief and pitched two perfect innings, striking out five to bring his season total to 74 in six appearances.

Larry Lee pitched Providence to a 7-1 win over Luther South as the Celts took a 3-0 Private League record into this week's action.

Providence is now 10-1 for the season. Lee in posting his first win allowed only two hits. The Celts opened with three runs in the first inning.

THE BEST IN Sports

Knights are best in Chess

NEW LENOX — The Lincoln-Way High School chess team, having its best season in its three-year-history, turned in a fine performance at the recent LaSalle-Peru Invitational Tournament.

The varsity team, made up of Brian Little, Tim Grimmer, Doug Emory, Scott Killinger and Brian Bennett finished in third place in a 16-team field. The junior varsity came home with the championship trophy in their 16-team division. The junior varsity is comprised of Tom Fitzgerald, Rich Chereskin, Steve Wilson, Bob Maschmeyer and Stan Wilson.

Other members of the L-W Chess Club who participated in the tournament were James Froelich, Frank Setter, Diane Goetsch and Cindy Mueller. Stan Wilson, Steve Wilson and Frank Setter earned special congratulations for winning individual trophies and going undefeated at their positions.

Randolph Pavlik, the club advisor, is pleased with its showing to date. It has won six dual meets while losing only one.

In tournament competition, the records show, the L-W varsity chess team finished fourth and second respectively at Crete and Marion Catholic Invitational. Pavlik feels the outlook for the team is good as it prepares for the state tournament scheduled for May 6 and 7.

Bengals stay unbeaten, 9-7

OAK FOREST — The Oak Forest baseball team will seek its third straight win today at Kankakee. The Bengals, who play frosh-soph teams because Oak Forest is only a two year school, stand at 2-0 for the weather abbreviated season.

Despite intermittent rain and cold weather, Oak Forest posted its second win last week 9-7 over Crete. The Bengals who collected eight hits jumped out to an 8-1 lead at the end of four innings.

Two walks, three errors, and two wild pitches in a rain-filled fifth inning gave Crete six runs, but Oak Forest held on to win. Coach Bob Miller got a slick relief pitching performance from Charles Pease. Pease replaced Dave Kohaus, after he had faced six men in the fifth inning and had gotten nobody out.

Pease struck out the side to end the Crete rally, and added a pair of strikeouts in the sixth and one in the seventh. Kohaus struck out 9 through the first four innings.

Bill Winlock had two hits and drove in three runs for the Bengals. Mark Rapinchuk batted in two runs.

Crete had only three hits and all but two of the losers runs were unearned.

BremenTowne shopping complex

Mall building begins soon

TINLEY PARK — Specific details on the BremenTowne Mall shopping center were released last week by the Tinley Park Industrial and Commercial Commission.

The shopping center, to be located at 159th and Oak Park Ave., is to have approximately 225,000 square feet of shopping area. The ground will be broken as soon as weather permits and it is hoped that the center will be ready for this year's Christmas shopping season.

Definite tenants of the center are Dominick's Finer Foods, Walgreen Drugstores, Minnesota Fabrics and Gordon's Interiors. There will also be a variety of men's and women's clothing shops, shoe stores, a currency exchange, service stores and novelty shops. Two restaurants are planned: Golden Bear family sit-down restaurant and a supper club type sit-down restaurant.

The leasing agents and developers of the project are Jack Jacobs and Company Chicago. The traffic engineer is Paul Box. Lindley and Sons, Inc., of Hinsdale, will be the civil engineers. The architects and planners are Richard Bowen and Associates, A.I.A., of Cleveland, Ohio and Hollywood, Florida.

The Industrial and Commercial Commission, under the direction of Ed Gregory, chairman, and Harry Kauffmann, commissioner-in-charge, held meetings during the past two months with representatives of the center's developer, engineer and architect, along with the department heads and trustees of the village. "It was the intent of the Industrial and Commercial Commission that by these meetings each affected departments and agency of the village could view its concerns and ideas to the developer," said Gregory.

"Hopefully, this input has enabled this shopping center to be customized to Tinley Park and its departmental requirements."

Trustee Carl Montecki has had several meetings with Lindley and Paul Box and will be working with the State of Illinois to insure proper enlargement and traffic control of 159th and Oak Park ave., so that it can adequately handle the project. Trustee Merle Landau has met with the architect and has co-ordinated the needs of this building department as the project progresses.

Trustee Pat Rea has worked with the police and fire departments to achieve adequate fire protection and police surveillance. Trustee Dick Durkin co-ordinated the Sewer and Water Department into the development.

A joint dinner meeting with approximately 19 people from the village board and department heads met Wednesday, April 12, where the developer presented the inputs he has received from the various village agencies. "It was agreed that the shopping center is progressing as planned and that earth work may be started, hopefully, within a week," said Gregory.

"After additional review by the Long Range Planning Commission, and review of the engineering plans by our engineers foundation, permits for the stores would later be approved."

"It should be pointed out that all members of the village government and government and its agencies are aware of the tax revenues our community will receive and all efforts are being made by our trustees and officials to expedite the construction and completion of the project as soon as possible."

Ecology writer speaks

ORLAND PARK — A Chicago Tribune environmental writer praised the work of the Illinois Pollution Control Board and told the Orland Park PTA, "People must tell the pollution board what the public thinks. They (the board) only hears from industry."

Miss Sally Wagner spoke before the April meeting of the District 135 PTA Tuesday evening of last week. "I have watched the board for 21 months. They are fair. They hear all aspects and then make their decision."

The Pollution Control Board hears environmental complaints.

Miss Wagner stated "Industry should spend less time attacking environmentalists and more time on cleaning up." She said that contrary to reports from industry no industry in Illinois has been forced to close because of the action of the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

Women must exercise their strength to preserve life," the writer urged.

Mrs. Jan Woodhouse, the former Miss Prombo and instructor in the Orland Park School, conducted the environmental program. She presented color slides she had taken during her tenure at Orland Park.

Mrs. Vern Hoerman, PTA president, reminded members of the Saturday, May 6, fun fair to be held at Orland Park School. There will be a bazaar booth, handicraft items, and fun for all ages.

Supt. Norbert Jerling reported on the bus accident which occurred on Monday morning of last week, involving two bus loads of Orland Park fourth graders being transported in charter buses on a field trip.

The superintendent reported that the community survey will be distributed to residents of the district Saturday, May 6.

Here are District 135 tax rates

ORLAND PARK — Tax bills at their best are hard to understand and when they keep climbing skyward they become more difficult to comprehend.

At last week's District 135 PTA meeting a HERALD reader stated, "Contrary to what the Orland Park HERALD reported, District 135 taxes decreased this year."

The spokesman was correct in stating that District 135 taxes went down. In 1970 the District 135 rate was 3.0846 and on this year's tax bill (1971) the rate had dropped .0319 to 3.0527.

The HERALD last week published: "The new tax rate for 1971 in Orland Park (School District No. 135) is $8.112 per $100 as against $7.882 in 1970."

This is correct and reflects the total tax bill for Orland Park residents, living in District 135. Even though there was a slight drop in the District 135 rate the total tax bill increased.

An increase of 11 percent in the district's assessed valuation during the past year was the major contributing factor to the District 135 rate decrease.

The following is a breakdown in the District 135 rate:

| 1971 Rates                 | 1971  | 1970  |
|----------------------------|-------|-------|
| (Same) Transportation Fund | .1200 | .1200 |
| (Decrease) Ill. Municipal  |       |       |

|                                |        |        |
|--------------------------------|--------|--------|
| Retirement Fund                | .0504  | .0562  |
| (Same) Educational Fund        | 1.8250 | 1.8250 |
| (Same) Building Fund           | .2500  | .2500  |
| (Increase) Bonds               | .5234  | .5179  |
| (Increase) Working Cash        | .0500  | .0000  |
| (Decrease) Life Safety         | .0286  | .0500  |
| (Decrease) Rental              | .1782  | .2400  |
| (Same) Special Ed.             | .0200  | .0200  |
| (Increase) Liability Insurance | .0071  | .0055  |
|                                | 3.0527 | 3.0846 |

The total increase in rate to the taxpayer is .23 for the 1971 year.

Police submit survey

FRANKFORT — A traffic survey made by Frankfort policewas submitted to the village board at its recent meeting by Trustee Donald Stupp, police commissioner, but no action was taken relative to establishment of a truck route as requested by some residents in the Center Road area.

Police made a nine-hour check of traffic on Center Road and reported an average of 74 cars and 43 trucks passed a given point per hour.

Stupp asked about the possibility of connecting Center Road and U.S. 45. There is a partial road running east and west but to widen, pave and provide right-of-way for a proper connection, with U.S. 45 would cost about $25,000, maybe more, it was estimated by Trustee Lynn Kohlhausen, street commissioner.

At the previous meeting of the board Duane Warning appeared to ask that the village establish a truck route to spare residential areas as much as possible from that type of traffic.

Trucks could use U.S. 45 south to Laraway Road and then go east to Center Road where they could turn north or south.

The county has hopes of opening Laraway Road to the east this year which would give trucks from the east a route to the Frankfort industrial area without coming through the village.

In other business to come before the board, it was decided to extend the water-main from the A & W root beer stand on the west side of U.S. 45, north of U.S.

30, to the commercial property planned by Ralph Show. There are to be a food store, package liquor store, a self-service laundry, and two offices in the building. The main extension will be about 200 feet in length.

Building permits which had been held up for Hillcrest Builders in the Chelsea subdivision at Center Road and Sauk Trail will now be issued. The building firm acquired the lots from James Sylvester, who had taken over the subdivision from the original developer. The board held up the permits on Hillcrest because the streets and sidewalks had not been completed and the board wanted a performance bond to cover this contingency.

At the meeting Village Attorney August J. Santoro read a letter from Sylvester that the unfinished work would be completed by him and he has a bond. It was pointed out Hillcrest Builders have no responsibility for the streets and walks, so the building permits were ordered issued.

Permission was granted the United Methodist Church to use the parkway on the north side of Church Street for parking.

Santoro informed the board that the intervening petition filed by the village in the trailer park suit had been dismissed by the circuit court. The proposed trailer court would be located south of Frankfort off U.S. 45, but within a mile and a half radius of the village.

The village had opposed the rezoning. The county zoning board of appeals had denied the petition and the county board concurred in its action. The petitioners then took the case to the circuit court but it has not been finally decided.

Property owners adjacent to the proposed trailer park are in the case as defendants because they are objecting to the rezoning. They are represented by Attorney Albert H. Krusemark Sr. Fred Jurcak, of Prestwick, is one of these interested in getting the zoning change.

Decorator enlightens women's club

A, B, C's digits aid decorating

Searching for a way to perk-up drab walls inexpensively? Looking for a way to express yourself through the decor of your home?

There's a super new way to do it. One word, supergraphics.

Graphic arts, by dictionary definition, refers to painting and related arts involving the use of lines and strokes to express or convey ideas in terms of forms.

Supergraphics then, are simply giant graphics. By painting the graphics on any wall in the home, walls, change, corners can be disguised and the room can be drawn together in one unique expression that is colorful, individual and yet artistically pleasing.

Choosing subject matter for supergraphics is an open field of every conceivable object and art form. A few years ago, Andy Warhol made a sensation with his giant version of a soup can.

While the soup can may not be for you, there are many other ways to use supergraphics. Perhaps the most common application of supergraphics is in the use of stripes. Another not-uncommon subject is the alphabet and numbers.

Supergraphics are suitable for all rooms in the house, all ages enjoy them. For a child's room, the alphabet is appropriate while numbers too, fit the bill. For that college student staying at home, painting a giant quote for a favorite philosopher would be fun and a topic of conversation.

In the master bedroom, living room or kitchen, enormous stripes picking up the color scheme of the room can draw the room together harmoniously. If you're not sure about supergraphics, try them in a small area such as the bath room.

A happy welcome can be added to the exterior of the home by applying a little imagination to the front door too. A rainbow of stripes on the entry, welcomes visitors to step over the threshold in anticipation of warm, friendly surroundings inside.

After the subject matter for the supergraphics has been decided upon, the next step is to draw the design on a scaled-down outline of the wall. Taking doorways, cabinets, appliances and furniture into consideration, the design should be larger on "gaps" on the walls, where neither pictures nor furniture block the view. The supergraphics can begin and end anywhere. Using natural starting points such as the baseboard or corners is the easiest, unless of course, the design is carried from wall to wall.

After the design has been determined, consider the colors in the room's decor. Select from those, two (or three at the most) hues which most suit your tastes and those which are easiest to live with. Also consider the compatibility of the colors, although in today's "anything goes" world of decorating, anything does literally go.

Remember too, that at a later date, you may want to cover your supergraphics. So also consider that dark colors are more difficult to cover than lighter shades. Some colors do "bleed through." Those should be avoided.

After the colors have been selected, with the map handy, draw the design on the wall in pencil. Refer constantly to your "map" to be sure that the design and the proper perspective is observed.

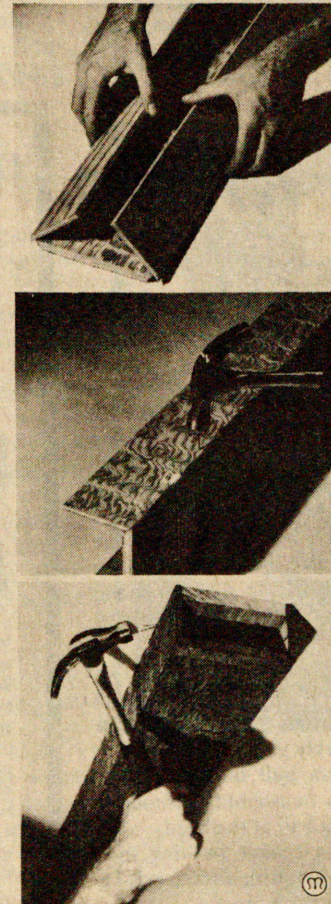

Only brave souls work free-hand and without an idea of the design that they want.

Depending upon the size of the supergraphics, no more than two quarts of paint are needed. While purchasing your paint, select good brushes or rollers. Above all, use good paint. It's easier to cover, easier to apply and easier to clean.

After the job is finished, sit back and enjoy your artistic handiwork and take in all of the compliments from family and friends.

Growth of the trend toward more casual living and the craze for Country Western have inspired an innovative plywood beam system making it easy to achieve decor such as that pictured above. Weldwood hand hewn beams are manufactured in three sections attached with cloth strips (upper right). Assembled and nailed at joints to form a U channel (center right) the "beams" are ready for nailing to a previously installed nailer strip (below). They may be natural, painted or stained. ### Cabinetry returns to classical

The trend toward traditional furnishings is being perpetuated by the elegant new interpretations of 18th century English designs. It is natural that designers should seek inspiration in that era; many of the world's finest cabinetmakers were producing between 1680 and 1820.

Some authorities divide the periods of decorative arts according to the popular wood of the time. There was the Age of Walnut (1680 - 1710), the Age of Mahogany (1710 - 1770) and the Age of Satinwood (1770 - 1820).

Often the periods are designed by the rulers: Queen Anne, Georgian (Early, Middle and Late), Regency and Victorian.

Furniture designers are looking primarily for style motifs from the Early Georgian through the Regency periods, the Ages of Mahogany and Satinwood.

There is not clear-cut demarcation between Queen Anne and the Early Georgian periods, although the tendency graduated toward somewhat heavier structures and more subtle curves. The beautiful mahogany furniture made by Chippendale and his followers has stimulated many to call this the golden age of furniture design.

The "reign" of Hepplewhite was next. His beautiful executions in Satinwood exerted profound influence on the furniture of that time.

Sherraton ranks with Chippendale and Hepplewhite in any designer's hall of fame. Many of his creations are characterized by straight lines and classical elements as well as decorative motifs from France.

Everything went classical in the last portion of the 18th century. Trend setters for the time were James and Robert Adam, whose furniture was classically simple, restrained and delicately crafted.

The classical forms continued into the Regency Period (Early 19th century) which marks the end of this era of outstanding design.

LOCKPORT — "A lot of thought goes into collecting; why hide it in the dust and gloom?" asked Kathleen Ross, an interior decorator consultant for Fitzgerald Furniture Company and a member of the Lockport Women's Club. Mrs. Ross spoke on the topic of interior lighting at the last meeting of the women's club.

"Too many people put their art or collection on a shelf and hope that people will notice it," she commented. Instead she suggested lighting prized items. "It's easier than it sounds," Mrs. Ross noted.

She stated that bulbs or tubes can be concealed in the interiors of breakfronts or on the undersides of shelves on bookcases. She suggested that homemakers "experiment with light" by adjusting intensity or focus of the beam. Focusing the angle of a light causes the interplay of light and shadow which can emphasize the texture of a prized item or wall surface, she noted.

"Poor lighting can detract from a prized possession," Mrs. Ross said, but, on the other hand, lighting can be used to enhance the size, appearance and color of collections or art items.

In general, interiors should be illuminated with one watt of light for each square foot of floor space, she said.

Mrs. Ross showed a film on the use of interior lighting which pointed out that the three major types of lights are lights to see by, lights to be seen by and lights at which to look.

The film gave a number of tips on home lighting including:

— conversation areas should be lighted horizontally, with light beams going across the room rather than down from the ceiling or up from the floor.

— lights can be inserted under kitchen cabinets to illuminate countertop space and to prevent kitchen injuries.

— reading lamps should be well-shielded and provide diffused light to avoid glare and shadow and resulting eye strain.

— wall surface imperfections can be hidden by moving lights further from the wall.

The film advised that lights to see by, to be seen by and to look at may involve all three functions in one lighting fixture, or combinations of single fixtures can be used to achieve a dual effect.

The Recliner for every age

Remember when recliners used to be big gawky monsters bought for the man of the house so he could have a chair all his own?

Recliners have entered the 70's with a new look, scaled to fit even small apartments and proportioned for modern lower-ceilinged rooms.

Many shoppers are really surprised to find the old stereotyped action chair has been replaced by a potpourri of styles and colors to please the most fashion conscious decorator.

Today, recliners come in a variety of styles to coordinate with any period or decor. Suede and cords, once unheard of for upholstering recliners, are seen in the marvelous synthetics on recliners, making them practical to clean while looking luxurious.

The same exciting fabrics you would expect to find on standard chairs are available on recliners. Their great plus, however, is the pure comfort engineered into this type of seating.

Constructed to take greater stress than ordinary chairs, the new recliners have sophisticated "interiors" that in more cases than not will allow the person using the chair to determine the most comfortable degree of slant at any stage of reclining.

Bold contrast perks Decor

What's in a name? Take accent, for instance. Accent is contrast, and color and beauty and zest. Yes, and something more. Accent is magic, an elixir that makes everything in a room look its best.

One well chosen accent can be the spark to a total new setting or a face lifting for a tired setting. There are hundreds of accents on the market today — charming, whimsical and always individualistic.

The shape of fashion is often in a cube, so why not consider a couple? Choose your color and your spirit. They serve many purposes — "Party" seating, valet to a lounge chair, bunched or used singularly as a cocktail table or just spotted around for ash-trays and glasses. Perhaps your room could use the glamour of a "block" of teak, rosewood, shiny chrome or translucent plexiglass. Or you might choose one of the many paint box colors in high shine.

Useful as well as effectively decorative are the multitude of new chests that you can find today in just about any variety you could name. One of the more popular is the pirate's sea chest or variation of the English campaign chest.

Floor selection major decision

The most used and abused product in the home is flooring. Selection of a durable flooring material which can be maintained easily is important if the home owner's money is to be spent wisely.

Factors that determine choice are: 1) cost; 2) where the material is to be used; 3) the amount of traffic it must bear; and 4) the degree to which it must resist moisture, grease and high temperatures; 5) type and condition of under flooring; 6) resistance to indentation; 7) ease of maintenance; 8) color and design; and 9) noise at impact.

Moisture conditions, concrete floors directly on earth, either below or at ground levels (grade), require a flooring material that is resistant to moisture and alkali.

Some floorings do not hold up well at continued high temperatures — above 85 degrees — 95 degrees F. Such as Asphalt tile, it may soften and in time, dryout and curl.

Indentation: if flooring dents badly under pressure its appearance is impaired and the floor becomes difficult to clean. If a 169 pound man sits in a chair, he imposes a load of 40 pounds on each leg. If he leans back on the chair, the load by the sharp edges of the back legs is not 80 pounds but the equivalent of 300 pounds or more per square inch.

Dents may be minimized by installing soft rubber casters or gliders (approximately 1 1/4" to 2 1/2") on the legs of furniture, or by placing cup type rests under them.

Resilience is the ability of the flooring to recover from matting or crushing. Ceramic tile, cement tile, vinyl cushion flooring such as Congoleum Shynil Vinyl and Armstrong's Solariah and GAF Foamcraft are the easiest floors to care for. Mottled designs having light and dark colors show soil less than solid colors.

Most flooring except asphalt, cork, natural rubber and cement have excellent resistance to grease.

Roll material is available in a variety of designs, special patterns and geometric designs.

All cushioned back materials absorb noises to a certain extent. All floor tiles are not really noted for this quality.

All cushioned back material to be installed on a radiant heated floor — the floor tile should be taken up and the Vinyl floor covering to be installed directly to the concrete.

Amazingly enough, use Congoleum, Shynil Vinyl (their no care floor: starts at only .33¢ per square foot, which is about the average price for peel and stick tile today) and you gain the advantage of a seamless floor in most cases.

It'd help if you knew what's a thingamabob

You've gone the unpainted furniture route — stained, antiqued and lacquered two stackable storage pieces — and you're very proud of your efforts.

So you place the bookcase against the wall, set the sliding door cupboard on top, fill them with prized possessions, and stand back to view the effect. . . .

The cat jumps up to investigate. The cupboard slides a bit to one side. You shudder and shoo the cat.

You weight the top of the cupboard with heavy bric-a-brac. Junior and the dog thunder past. The cupboard slides forward ominously. . . .

Okay. The problem is clear. You have to fasten those units together — firmly, so the cupboard won't slide, and from the back where the First Aid won't show.

"You know what we need?" you say to your husband. "Two of those thingamabobs, you know?"

He looks blank. He doesn't know.

"Those bars, those metal whatties . . . with screw holes? The things we used in the old apartment to seal the sliding doors?"

"Oh. Those. Yeah. They might work."

"What do you call them, anyway?"

He shrugs. He hasn't the faintest idea.

And neither has the clerk in the building supplies store or the one in the hardware store when you try to explain what you need.

You haven't a sample to show him, you can't find one on display, and his attitude lets you know he thinks you made it all up in your head.

You get frantic; the clerk gets surly; the manager intervenes. A wise man and a patient one, he hands you a pencil and paper.

"Draw me a picture," he tells you.

Shakily, you sketch it — a simple long rectangle with a hole at each end.

The manager nods sagely, pats you on the shoulder. "Sure," he says. "A mending plate. How many did you want?"

***

Maybe You Know — But . . .

This sort of scene goes on every day all over the country. The problem is vocabulary — the customer knows what he wants, but he doesn't know what to call it.

Maybe you know what a mending plate is, but can you pass the following quiz? Try This Quiz

1. You move into a house where some of the windows are painted shut. What's the tool you need to unstuck them?
  2. You have a lamp, a radio and an electric alarm clock. Behind your bedside table is one measley electric outlet. What do you call the thing you plug in to make three outlets from one?
  3. You want to hang drapery panels at each side of a window — just at the sides, not across the middle. You don't want any hardware to show. What kind of curtain rod do you need?
  4. You buy a lampshade that clips to the bulb. You bring it home and it hangs too low. So you buy a bigger bulb. Now the shade hangs right, but the light's too bright. What's the solution?
  5. You're starting a carpentry project. You know you need a saw. What else do you need to know before you rush out and buy one?
  6. You want a hammer that pulls out nails as well as pounding them in. What do you call it? What do you call the other kind?
  7. Can you use a candle-base bulb in a standard-socket lamp?
  8. What are four things that you can do to bridge the communications gap between you and the hardware industry?
- Answer these question the best you can before you read any further. If you get them all right, you're probably in the hardware business. If you score 4 to 6, you're a pretty fair do-it-yourselfer. If you can answer one or two, you're the average hardware store customer.
- Here Are the Answers

1. You want a window zipper. It's a handle with curved toothed blades set at the proper angle for wedging between sash and frame to scrape out excess paint.
2. You call it a cube tab. It comes in varied sizes and styles to suit particular problems.

Rules restrict spring cleanup trash pick-up

NEW LENOX — Annual spring clean-up day for New Lenox has been set for May 13.

Village officials urge householders to get things organized so that the one-day clean-up will be successful.

There are rules to the affair, however, that householders are to follow, it was said. The pick-up of trash and debris will be made by the C & A garbage pick-up firm that services New Lenox.

The clean-up crews will take old stoves, refrigerators, small machine parts, couches, chairs, any discarded household items, washing machines, etc., according to the list put out by C & A. Branches and tree limbs cut to no longer than five-foot lengths and tied in bundles. Small trimmings must be bagged. Old tires also will be taken.

The general rule, according to C & A is that anything of reasonable size which can be handled by two men will be taken. If anything is left, it would be because either the trucks or the men are unable to handle it.

And here are the things that will not be taken:

Building material or parts of buildings. Car frames or large parts of cars or motors.

Block or rocks. Anything of unreasonable size, shape or weight, as already mentioned.

For Earl Hiller

Lockport farmer fulfills dream

LOCKPORT — The Lawn and garden business came naturally for Earl Hiller who has been in the landscaping business for nearly a decade in the Lockport area.

This year the Hillers have expanded their services to both the Joliet and Downers Grove communities. They are currently conducting a grand opening event at their Downers Grove store on Warrenville Road.

Having a farm background Hiller liked the lawn and garden work from the time he was a boy. He started in landscaping and tree work in 1963 and continued in this phase of the business until 1968 when he purchased the Cook farm on Route 7 east of Lockport.

Here the dreams of Earl Hiller became a reality and in the spring of 1969 the Hiller's Landscape & Garden Center of Lockport opened. The following spring a new store was built.

With the new store many lines were added, "always with the thought of quality in mind."

"Our nursery stock is believed to be as good as any in the area and better than some," the landscaper stated. "We feel only good quality northern stock will do well in this area, so this is all we offer our customers."

The 1970 and 1971 seasons were "very successful" for the new firm and when the firm had the opportunity to expand to the Joliet and Downers Grove areas the Hillers believed they would be better able to serve their customers.

In January of this year the firm purchased the Hardi Garden Store on Fairlane Street in Joliet and Warrenville Road in Downers Grove. Both stores are not called Hillers Garden Centers.

The items offered for sale vary from trees, shrubs and evergreens to tropical fish, also from artificial flowers to power lawn equipment.

The business is a family operation with everyone taking part. Earl Hillers serves as the coordinator but he can be found lending a hand in the day-to-day operation of any one of the stores.

Mrs. Hiller (Merna) helps out in the Lockport store and Mrs. Mae Bruntzen of Lockport is the bookkeeper at Lockport. Gary Hiller, who is a graduate of Lockport High School, has taken over the management of his parents' Joliet garden store.

Sherry, the Hillers' 16-year-old daughter and oldest of four girls, works in the greenhouse. She says, "I like to see things grow." She is assisted by Hiller's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hiller, Sr., of Lockport who have spent their entire lives on the farm. Now retired, they still like to work with the earth and enjoy assisting their grand-daughters in the greenhouse.

Lori, 14, would rather stay at home and keep house. However, she likes the tropical fish and works with them. Pattie and Bonnie help in the greenhouse, stock shelves and assist in various other functions.

With the purchase of the two additional stores Charles Mertens of Westmont was hired to manage the Downers Grove store and Ted Sommerfeld of Alsip was hired

Old and New mix for pleasant Now

Something old and something new might well be the phrase to express the philosophy of this season's home fashions.

Preserving a careful, and individual, balance between the two could be the next most important step in achieving this perspective.

With the advent of the nuclear family, all the environmental changes around us, the urgent need for family sanctuaries of beauty, function and quiet refuge — the home assumes an even more necessary function in today's way of life.

The imprint of yesterday can be seen in the nostalgic revival of Victorian, Early American and older traditional furnishings.

The impact of today projects the vibrant melange of new materials and designs. Steel and glass and man-made fibers are attractive to the eye — are extremely functional as well.

They also have the advantage of easy-maintenance — clearly one of the prerequisites for modern living.

The impetus that speeds us into the Seventies appears to be propelled with the need to preserve all three eras — and eclecticism, or skillful mix, seems to continue as the unifying force in furnishing and decorating the home.

Everything, apparently, is the pointing and counter-pointing of color, line, fabric and imagination.

Traditional furnishings blend subtly with gleaming surfaces of glass and steel. Brightly colored graphics and contemporary art can be inspiring touches for antique and avant-garde furnishings.

Small room areas — a bay window or an entrance or an unused corner of the room — can be turned into new and interesting vignettes of function and beauty.

Almost every room can be used for several different purposes. The bedroom may have an area that provides a small study with desk, chair and attractive lighting.

The living room might have a screened-off area that becomes a sleeping area. A wall can become a family center for the home art gallery, the stereo, the library,

Color can be as imaginative with underplayed beiges and white as splashy combinations of prints and patterns.

The overall mood of today's home furnishings reflects the verve and vitality of life around us — at the same moment providing a low-keyed warmth, a serene haven for private living.

Matter of pride

Improvements essential

Home improvement becomes a top priority for property owners as the need for housing in the nation far exceeds the rate of new construction.

It's far more than a matter of personal pride for the Home Owner. It is more than a matter of assuring the family continuous comfort and improvement of its standard of living.

It also is a matter of maintaining and enhancing the value of the home that is owned. And surely, if it's an additional house or two owned for rental purposes, improvements in these existing structures can help increase the rental return and serve a community need.

Home Improvements this year can very much become a contribution to the health and welfare of the family, in the universal fight against pollution and on behalf of preservation of our national resources.

Involves Keeping Things Clean

This important phase of Home Improvement involves, essentially, keeping the home and its grounds clean; abjuring the use of pollutants and nondegradable materials, collecting recyclables, such as glass bottles, aluminum cans, all manner of paper, for delivery to services set up for this purpose in the community.

It also involves avoiding wasteful use of electricity and gas, among other things. And all of this serves to create savings for the family.

The Home Improvement action is moving strongly also into the area of apartments — especially condominium, and in some instances into co-operatives, where owner permission is given. It is possible for occupants to make themselves more comfortable by taking advantage of the many ingenious ways for making their apartments more livable, more efficient.

Do It Yourself

The traditional pride of home owners and the new imperatives of modern living are expected to send the total annual volume of dollar demand for the necessary materials, tools and professional services to a new historic high this year — new estimated at more than $17 billion.

A marked increase in the do-it-yourself capabilities of people, both men and women, nurtured by availability of tools designed specially for them, and materials that also are designed for ease of manipulation, help them make their Home Improvement dollars go farther.

There are several areas, however, in which even the most accomplished of the do-it-yourselfers would do better for themselves by calling on the professionals for expert help.

These, of course, include anything involving electrical wiring, plumbing and the addition of a room or two or major structural changes in the home.

Practically everywhere, these types of Home Improvements, involving safety and health, are subject to local government inspection.

Outdoors Also

Home improvements are by no means to be confined to the interior of the home. In addition to modern new sidings, a new roof where needed, there's the landscaping of the grounds on which the home stands, about which home owners should be concerned.

And here is another one of the Home Improvements that can contribute to improving the ecology of the immediate environment in which the family lives.

Trees and shrubbery can do more than enhance the appearance of the grounds. Their proper placement and nurture can help sweeten and purify the air in which the family lives.

Inducing neighbors to plant selectively can not only multiply the improvement in the appearance of the neighborhood, it can also multiply the beneficial effects of greenery for all concerned.

Do a Check-Up

While most experienced home owners are by this time well aware of what needs to be done to repair and improve their homes, even the most knowledgeable can profit from an indoor-outdoor check-up of their properties, to make sure livability and value are both enhanced.

Financing Home Improvements need be no problem. Commercial Banks, and in some instances Savings and Loan companies, can help you.

So why not a thoughtful family conference — one that will give the kids as well as mom and dad a chance to have their say.

Make your indoors check, room by room, your outdoor check by a family stroll around the grounds.

Well-furnished home with budget possible

A well-furnished home is possible on a limited budget — with thoughtful and careful buying and plenty of advance planning.

Home economists, economics experts and most young-marrieds who have tried it, will agree it is preferable to furnish your home gradually — by investing first in necessities, second in conveniences and finally in "finishing touches."

When buying the necessities — the furniture you intend to have around for many years to come — it is wise to figure on spending considerable money for "good goods" pay in the end, however large the cost may appear at the beginning. The costs of handling low-grade furniture are fully as high (and even higher in proportion) as the costs of handling better furniture. In fact, low-grade furniture usually gives the least value per dollar of cost in terms of endurance, ease in maintenance and length of service.

By correctly apportioning available funds, by choosing each piece slowly and carefully and by securing good value for every cent spent, you can have a well-furnished home with even the most moderate budget.

Wisely used, installment credit can be a real service when used for large purchases such as a dining room or bedroom set, sofa or major appliances. Unwisely used, "buying-on-time" can induce payment in excess of income without due consideration of values.

Oftentimes, it is best to initially invest in only the minimum of large, costly items — making certain they are well constructed, easy-to-care-for and are something you'll want to live with for years to come — when first furnishing a home or apartment.

The accessories which turn a house into a home — pictures, lamps, flower bowls, vases, candlesticks, book-ends, waste baskets, art objects — are usually much less expensive than larger items and can help achieve a well-furnished lived-in look until you can afford to buy other major pieces that will last and complete your home.

Water bed accepted

The waterbed has left the hippie pad where it first gained popularity, and has successfully moved into the suburban bedroom. It has evolved from just a mattress thrown on the floor to a complete system: a mattress, safety liner, foam insulating pad, or UL approved heater, beautiful frame, and a pedestal base that would make anyone proud to include it in their home's furnishings.

They come in conventional bed sizes ranging from twin, double, queen, and king, to custom sizes. You use conventional flat linens when making them up. Handsome waterbed frames are available in many styles including contemporary thermoformed vinyls, richly grained woods, and fully upholstered models in fake furs, crushed velvets, vinyls, and custom fabrics.

Though the waterbed as we know it gained popularity in the last few years, it is not a new idea. The origin of waterbeds dates to early Egyptian times when wine merchants weary from long travel would, in lieu of a handy motel, "sack out" on their skins (goat skins filled with wine) in the back of their wagons.

Today's watermattress is a mattress shaped vinyl container filled with water rather than foam rubber, padding, or steel springs. It supports your body perfectly as the fluid conforms itself to the exact shape of your body. You control the amount of firmness you like: more water more firmness, less water less firmness. The water is treated so it never has to be replaced. However, should you move, the mattress can be easily drained and folded for shipment.

The bed is completely safe and dependable, and won't break unless deliberately punctured. Small repairs can be easily accomplished using the vinyl repair patch kit that comes with each mattress. The liner and frame act as a secondary backup system that can contain all the water and prevent any damage. A manufacturer's warranty should be standard with each bed, and the better manufacturers offer five year warranties. Some states, such as California, and Georgia have set up rules governing waterbeds. In Chicago, if a building meets minimum building code requirements it can support a waterbed.

A waterbed is many things to many people, a conversation piece, a guest attraction, and say many, "the ultimate in a good night's sleep." Its enthusiasts claim their waterbeds alleviate insomnia, headaches, backaches, and one Washington man claims that it saved his marriage. One thing it does is to provide your body with total support without pressure points, thus you get a good night's sleep without tossing and turning.

Many hospitals have used waterbeds for some time in their burn units because they help prevent pressure ulcers, more commonly known as bed sores. They are also being used in many nursing, and geriatric homes. They are marvelous to sleep on whether or not they are counted on to ease the injured, the pregnant, the long bedridden, or for just a good night's sleep.

Two ideas for an alcove: put a dressing table there, or make it a phone nook. And make it bright, with a vinyl wallcovering that's an easy-to-install help to home improvement. Peggy Walker designed these two "facelifts" with J. Josephson vinyls—one, Persian Stripe, in a dressing area with a horizontal dado to vary its otherwise vertical pattern, and the other, Cortina, in a corner with drop-down seat and desk near the phone. Desk is complete with cork notebord and a "well" in its writing surface for the telephone directory, so shopping helps are at hand.

Seven ideas to assist do-it-yourself painters

The do-it-yourself house-painting project can be made easier than was possible a year ago, according to Sears, Roebuck and Co.

The secret is today's easier-to-apply acrylic latex exterior house paints, coupled with careful planning, proper equipment and a little help from the rest of the family.

"New acrylic latex paints are chemically formulated with resins to adhere more readily than oil-base or latex paints of a year ago," explains Arthur E. Griesbaum, national merchandise manager for Sears paint lines. "The result is longer paint life without peeling, chipping or chalking."

Improved spreading control is another chemical development associated with resins. Griesbaum points out that paint must be spread at a 1/32nd-inch thickness, or the old painted surface will show through.

He added that the new acrylic latex paint also has an improved colorfastness, which extends the life of the paint job. Newly added chemicals, which have been proven in six years of exposure tests, reflect the sun's infrared rays and resist airborne pollutants, to assure durable, non-yellowing color.

Griesbaum offers homeowners the following suggestions for an easier, more successful house-painting project:

1. Prepare every surface to accept a fresh covering of paint. This means taking off the peeling, flaky or chalky paint, filling cracks that can absorb moisture, using a primer undercoat to seal porous wood and sanding down any previously painted surface that is so smooth and glossy that new paint can't adhere. For large areas, consider using an electric drill with inexpensive sanding and wire brush attachments to remove and rough up old paint.

2. For a two-story home, use an aluminum extension ladder that is light-weight enough for one man to handle.

3. Use drop-cloths to protect shrubbery, patio, walks and driveway while painting. For most projects, four 9 by 12 foot drop-cloths will be enough. Non-porous plastic drop-cloths are recommended for do-it-yourself projects.

4. Do things in the right order. Take off shutters; remove or cover light fixtures; caulk cracks or surface defects; prime unsealed wood or bare metal; remove chipping, peeling or chalking paint, and sand high-gloss areas from previous paintings before applying paint.

Don't shortcut for wall prep

Haste certainly can make waste for the do-it-yourselfer working on a wall-covering project.

Following instructions is fine IF the walls have been properly prepared. In fact, the manufacturer of Golden Harvest adhesives points out that wall preparation is the most important step in the process.

"Don't take shortcuts" probably is the best advice that experienced applicators can give do-it-yourselfers working on their first wallcovering project.

Be sure to remove all the old wall-paper, fill cracks and holes, and sand rough areas. To make sure that your room has a professional look when finished, apply a fast and economical coat of wall size.

Wall size acts as the first coat in preparing surfaces for papering. It also is an ideal sealer.

By using wall size, you'll get a better bond between the paper and the wall. In addition, wall size permits better workability so that pattern matching is easier.

Wall size can be used with all types of wallcoverings except vinyl. A one pound box of Golden Harvest wall size is sufficient for an average 9' x 12' room.

5. Use a brush pad to apply the paint. The pad, a relatively new device which soaks up paint without dribbling it down the handle, works better than a brush on flat surfaces, because it lays down a more even coat for uniform drying and sheen.

6. Start painting at the top of the house and work down, always painting from an unpainted area into a previously painted wet edge. Do an entire section, usually a side, at one time. Paint window frames and doors last, using a semi-gloss latex.

7. Divide the work among the family, with Dad painting the larger sections of the house and Mom painting window frames and other details of trim. Children also can be helpful in moving drop-cloths and stirring paint.

Basic tools can save dollars

A basic tool kit for emergency home repair jobs and do-it-yourself maintenance projects can help reduce scheduled waits for busy professionals — plus the cost of their service.

What tools should go into the kit? Sears, Roebuck and Co., which has been selling tools since before the turn of the century, offers some guidelines:

First, select a claw hammer with a 16-ounce head and a metal composition handle or a wooden handle with non-slip features. The 16-ounce hammer is a good, all-around tool for most jobs — from setting fences to repairing a roof to hanging pictures.

A 14-inch jack plane for trimming and smoothing edges of dimension lumber, doors and trim is a wise buy. The long "bed" or bottom of the plane permits shaving without rocking and dip-cutting materials.

Other basic tools should include a twist drill set, up to 1/4-inch, for boring holes in both metal and wood; a 1/4-inch hand drill to operate the twist drill set; screwdrivers with 4- and 8-inch blades and 1/8 through 3/8" tips for removing and driving screws in small appliances, hinges and locksets, and a medium-size No. 2 Phillips' screwdriver. The Phillips' screwdriver can be used for mechanical repairs such as small appliances, electrical systems, and on autos.

For cutting, an 8 pt. saw is best. It can be used for both ripping and cross-cutting fiber and wood materials. It provides fairly smooth sawn edges, eliminating planing and sanding labor.

Also handy for cutting purposes are a utility (razor) knife for wood, paper and fiber materials; a single-cut 8-inch shoe rasp file for smoothing wood and fiber materials; and a combination oilstone for sharpening planes and other cutting edges.

In basic tools, an adjustable locking plier-wrench is a good buy since the tool can be used for both loosening and tightening stubborn bolts and screws. An Allen wrench set is necessary for driving socket setscrews in small appliances and autos.

For general use — from plumbing repairs to tightening and loosening bolts on bikes and washing machines — 6- and 10-inch adjustable wrenches are a must.

Mack, Palos Heights, all graduates of Carl Sandburg High School, have made the Dean's List of Undergraduate Honor Students for the first semester 1971-72 at the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Cindy Swan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Swan, 15933 S. Grove, Oak Forest, will be participating in a global evangelistic venture this summer. She is one of 50 students from Chicago's Moody Bible Institute who will take part in a film evangelism ministry at the 1972 Summer Olympics in Munich, Germany, August 26 to Sept. 10.

If you like to cook,
but don't like to clean,
you'll like doing both with a self-cleaning
electric range.

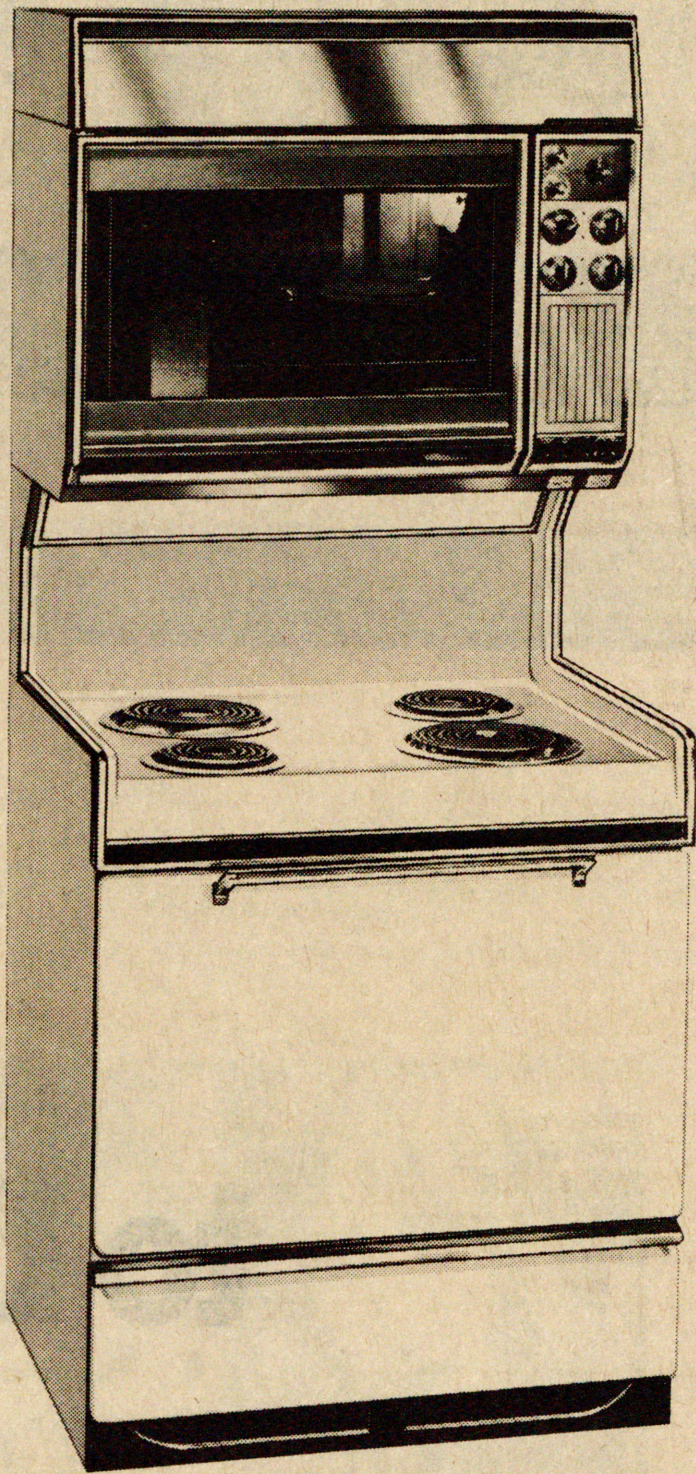

The self-cleaning electric range cleans the entire oven . . . oven shelves, inner oven door and window. Surface units are self-cleaning too. A self-cleaning electric range gets everything cleaned, without work or messy chemicals. The cost to clean? Only about 8¢. You really clean up on that one.

You'll like cooking with your electric oven, too. It's fully insulated, so it warms up faster, maintains even temperature. And because there's no pilot light you can put frozen food in the oven, set an automatic timer, and it won't start cooking until you want it to.

So get a self-cleaning electric range. You'll love the way it cooks and cleans.

AUTO DEALER OF THE WEEK

CHUCK GREENWAY

Chuck Greenway and his wife, Bettie, have 3 children ages 11, 9 and 6, living in Lockport, Ill., and have owned GREENWAY PONTIAC - OLDSMOBILE (IH Trucks) in Morris for 4 years. It was formerly 3 separate agencies: Benson Pontiac, Johnson Olds and Varland I.H.

Chuck considers himself very fortunate to have two former service managers working in our shop as master mechanics.

The opening of I-80 has made travel to Morris easily accessible to communities East & North of Joliet. This has aided him in gaining recognition as the 1st growing GM dealership in the tri-county area.

Chuck is also on the school board for district 91 and was formerly a high school teacher, in addition to working in the auto business for the last 12 years.

Budding enterprise

Couple rejuvenates Harlem Ave. home

ORLAND PARK — A new husband and wife business venture is rapidly taking root during these warm spring days.

Ralph Sipes, with the help of his vivacious redhaired wife, Gerry, is realizing a lifetime dream of owning and operating a garden center.

The Prairie House, 15151 S. Harlem Ave., Orland Park, will no doubt be an enterprising business. It is surrounded by areas of new non-landscaped homes waiting for the expertise of someone who cares.

Ralph, formerly in the building trade, has always been interested in landscaping and according to Gerry, he is the "Chief and I'm the Indian."

The Prairie House originally belonged to Herb Schilling and was located near 151st St. and Harlem Ave. The Sipes bought the home and had it moved to its present site in front of their family home.

The house retains its 100 year old historical family feeling in spite of the addition of newly paneled walls. The ten foot ceilings and original woodwork help to maintain the nostalgic feeling one is given when viewing the restored outside. Prior to moving to the new site, vandals destroyed the oak spindle stair railing leading to four bedrooms on the second floor. All the plaster was lost during the moving however, some of the windows appear 'wavy' enough for belief in pre Civil War installation.

The main floor is being used for display purposes for soil conditioners, bulbs, lawn equipment, young plants, nutrients and sprays. Eventually there will probably be a small gift shop possibly on the second floor.

There will be a complete line of shrubs, shade and flowering trees in addition to flowers.

The sipes are members of the Illinois Landscape Contractors Association.

Their two sons, Mark, 18 and John 16, will be assisting their parents in the family business. There are also three boys working parttime.

Chief urges family plan escape path

TINLEY PARK — As Spring Clean-Up time makes its annual appearance, this is a good time to "clean up" possible misunderstandings about emergency escape procedures.

So says Fire Chief Robert Bettenhausen of Tinley Park as he urges every family to plan to plan and practice for escape in case of fire.

"National Fire Protection Association studies indicate that the majority of lives lost in home fires might have been saved if people had planned and rehearsed ways to escape," the Chief points out. Each year in the United States alone, dwelling fires claim the lives of an estimated 6,500 persons — slightly more than half of all victims of fatal fires.

Here are some suggestions from Chief Bettenhausen for home escape planning:

Carefully figure out at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house, especially bedrooms. Allow for blocking of stairways or halls by fire.

Particularly for nighttime fires, remember that closed bedroom doors will hold back flame and smoke, allow extra time for escape or rescue.

For upper floor escape, use any available porch and garage roofs, ladders and trees as ways down to safety. Be sure exit windows work easily, and that they are low and large enough to get through.

Pick an outside assembly point where the family will meet for a "roll-call" and be sure everyone knows the rule "once out — stay out."

Know how to call the fire department by street box or neighbor's phone, and do this as quickly as the house is clear of people.

Plan who will look out for infants and the infirm, and how.

Once your plans are made, urges Chief Bettenhausen, it's important for all the family — including the children — to rehearse them carefully and regularly.

Allergic relief side benefit in air cooling

One of the most rewarding by-products of air conditioning is its ability to alleviate the sufferings of many allergic and asthmatic persons, says the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

Large amounts of offending pollen and dust are removed by the mechanical filtration that is built into all central air-conditioning systems. Still more of these impurities are extracted when an electronic air cleaner is added to a conventional system.

At an environmental forum conducted by ARI, Dr. Jay Spiegelman, Philadelphia allergist, pointed to the contribution that residential total comfort equipment is making in the relief of allergic and asthmatic symptoms. He recommended a system that provides "adequate winter heating, summer cooling, electronic air cleaning to control dust year-round, humidification in winter, and some sort of odor control."

Some form of allergy, he said, afflicts from seven to 10 per cent of the population, particularly between April and October when pollen is heaviest.

Spiegelman said that by staying indoors, some protection is achieved. He cited a study of two homes, one with and one without air conditioning, where it was found that the non-air-conditioned environment measured about 10 to 15 per cent of the outdoor pollen count at the height of ragweed season. The air-conditioned house recorded a pollen count that ranged from one to one-and-one-half per cent of the outdoor level. With an electronic air cleaner this amount will be reduced even further, and, in addition, as much as 99 per cent of house dust can be extracted from indoors, Spiegelman said.
